

Castro Regime in Pitch to Kennedy But on Own Terms

Cracks Down On Cubans Who Seek to Flee

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro's regime cracked down today on Cubans trying to flee the country and floated another pitch for a reconciliation with the United States after President-elect John F. Kennedy takes office.

The government froze issuance of new exit permits for all Cuban

Cuba Says 2 Arms Airdrops Seized

HAVANNA (AP)—The Cuban defense ministry, with forces deployed against the alleged threat of invasion, claimed today two big airdrops of U.S. arms intended for counterrevolutionaries have been intercepted in separate areas of Cuba.

A formal press announcement said the arms were dropped by planes "coming from the north" and were packed in the original crates of U.S. arms factories.

Militiamen under Capt. Manuel Borjas seized one arms airdrop in Pinar Del Rio Province, less than 50 miles west of Havana, the announcement said. Castro forces allegedly intercepted another batch in the fringes of the Escambray mountains in Las Villas Province, the central Cuban scene of insurgent activity for months.

The Defense Ministry said the Pinar Del Rio seizure included 68 Garand rifles; 17 tommyguns; 400 hand grenades, mortars and bazookas; 7 machine guns; 5 Browning automatic rifles; 14 pistols; and other munitions and medicine.

and foreign residents but said tourists will not be affected. American residents leaving will not require new permits to leave unless they intend to return.

The pitch to Kennedy was made by Ernesto (Che) Guevara, president of Cuba's national bank and architect of Castro's revolutionary economic policies.

Political Exchange
At the same time, Guevara admitted in a three-hour television speech Friday night that Cuba swapped its 1960-61 sugar crop to the Communist bloc for political considerations. He did not say what the political considerations were.

In carrying the Castro regime's wooing of Kennedy further, Guevara emphasized that Kennedy said Wednesday he would not assume responsibility for the break-

Pro-Red Force Advancing on Luang Prabang

Reports Differ
Regarding Threat
To Royal Capital

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A column of pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels was reported advancing on Luang Prabang today from the north. Advices varied, however, as to whether that royal capital was imminently threatened.

French sources said the threat to Luang Prabang was increasing. Other western military men placed the column still 60 miles north of the city and said it was in no immediate danger.

The more optimistic view seemed to be shared by King Savang Vathana. He took off today from Vientiane for Luang Prabang after earlier delays that raised questions about the security of the city.

Delays Departure
The king, in Vientiane for the formal installation of the new anti-Communist government of Premier Prince Boun Oum, had delayed his departure but then started yesterday. He returned in less than two hours, and a spokesman explained that there had been engine trouble.

The king's second departure early today indicated the rebel attacks in the Luang Prabang area are isolated clashes between guerrilla units and royal patrols and were not connected with a major Pathet Lao offensive.

Military sources confirmed ban on the East-West highway linking the strategic Plaine des Jarres with Communist North Vietnam fell to pro-Communist forces practically without a fight.

Most of Xieng Khouang Province now is in hands of pro-Communist paratroop Capt. Kong Le and his Pathet Lao allies. Two of the main north-south and East-West highways in Laos join in Xieng Khouang, and the province has four important airstrips.

Honest Elections

Big City Machines Republican Target

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans pointed their guns toward the big city Democratic machines today as they repaired gaps in the GOP organization defeated in the presidential election.

National Chairman Thruston B. Morton called on Ohio State Chairman Ray Bliss to head a task force charged with probing "the practicalities of big city politics" and telling Republicans how to win in these areas.

Bliss, whose organization carried Ohio for Vice President Richard M. Nixon in November, is a potential successor to Morton.

Morton to Resign
Morton accepted a unanimous invitation of the committee Friday to remain as chairman. But he said he will resign later in the year to begin campaigning for reelection to the Senate from Kentucky.

Morton named Bernard M. Shanley, former White House staff member, to devise a "preempt security program" aimed at making it certain only authorized votes are cast and that they are counted correctly.

As an echo of Republican charges of irregularities in some states such as Illinois which Nixon lost by narrow margins, Morton asked for a model election law of "full equity" to recommend to state legislatures. He picked Harley B. Markham of Idaho to head a drafting group.

Discuss 1962 Campaign
These actions, combined with a drive to register voters now, added up to an early start on the 1962 campaign for control of Congress. President Eisenhower told committee members Friday they can win the House if they work hard enough.

The whole theme of the committee's two-day meeting, winding up with a closed business session today, was directed at the congressional elections nearly two years away.

Kennedy's Grass to be Greener, Even With Dye

WASHINGTON — A harmless green dye is being sprayed on the grounds of the Lincoln Memorial to give the January grass a June hue for inaugural visitors.

The dye, which has been used in the past at other tourist attractions in the area, will last for about two months.

Students Protest Court Order

University of Georgia Told It Must Admit Negroes Immediately

MACON, Ga. (AP)—A federal judge's order for the immediate quarter at Georgia, oldest state-chartered university in the nation to the University of Georgia, sparked a minor demonstration and presented the Legislature with its gravest problem in years, before deciding whether he would enroll Monday.

At present he is attending Morehouse College in Atlanta. The other Negro student seeking admission to Georgia Public School Problem

Miss Hunter, 18, also of Atlanta, said she planned to go to Athens, "as soon as I can—probably Sunday."

Miss Hunter is studying journalism at Wayne State University in Detroit.

In ordering the students admitted, U. S. District Judge W. A. Bootle ruled the university had discriminated against Negroes because of their race. The decision Friday also permanently enjoined the institution from barring other eligible Negro applicants.

Showdowns Seen Next Week on 2 Moves by Liberals

Curbs Proposed on House Rules Committee, Filibusters

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new Congress faces likely showdowns next week on two liberal moves—efforts to trim the power of the House Rules Committee and to make it easier to halt Senate filibusters.

Opening routine, speeches and preliminary maneuvering stalled action in both houses this week during the initial days of the new session.

But the Democratic Committee on Committees plans a meeting next week which may result in an attempt to purge Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., from the Rules Committee unless some compromise is agreed to before then.

Seek to Break Coalition
House Speaker Sam Rayburn reportedly is willing to throw Colmer off the committee if necessary to break the hold a coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats on the rules group has on legislation.

Two antifilibuster proposals face the Senate. The strongest—favored by liberals—would permit limitation of debate by a majority, or 51, of the 100 senators after a filibuster ran 15 days. A compromise proposal, generally given a better chance of adoption.

Messages Pour In on Rayburn's 79th Birthday
WASHINGTON (AP)—The warm glow that comes from good wishes from good friends enveloped Speaker Sam Rayburn today.

Glad tidings were still pouring in from all sections of the country to mark the grizzled veteran's 79th birthday, celebrated yesterday by leading Democrats and Republicans alike.

On the house and senate floors, praise was extensive for the Democrat who has served as speaker of the house longer than any man in history. Rayburn has served in the house since March 4, 1913.

President Eisenhower got off a letter to "Dear Mr. Sam," which said: "For the last time, as President, I wish you a happy and gratifying birthday, a sentiment in which Mamie wholeheartedly joins. Few Americans can point to such a richness of friends and respect so universally felt, as you can on this anniversary. With a multitude of others I salute a distinguished public servant and devoted American."

The group proclaimed a "Charter of New Africa" for cooperation in political, economic, military and cultural affairs.

The conference decided that a group of technicians will set up four commissions to organize the cooperation among African nations. These technicians are expected to make their reports within three months.

French Happy Over Big Vote At Algiers Polls

Optimistic About Outlook for Plan on Self-Determination

ALGIERS (AP) — French officials beamed optimism today as the crucial referendum on President Charles de Gaulle's self-determination plan for Algeria entered its second day.

A voter turnout averaging 62 per cent Friday in 600 rural communities bolstered official hopes for approval of De Gaulle's plan to end six years of strife in this French territory.

Urges Approval
De Gaulle has pleaded for a heavy "yes" vote and rebel leaders have called for a boycott of the polling places. French officials frankly believe a heavy vote of approval would give De Gaulle a greater chance of achieving a solution for the bloody Algerian question.

The French army maintained a vigilant watch today as about 570 communities voted. The army was ordered to prevent abstention.

Moslems generally disregarded orders from the rebel National Front of Liberation (FLN).

A major test—and the possibility of violence—comes Sunday when residents of urban centers, tense with agitation by Moslems and rightwing European settlers, cast their ballots.

The settlers violently oppose De Gaulle's plan for making Algeria an autonomous state and giving the Algerians themselves political self-determination at a later date.

De Gaulle warned Frenchmen the referendum will be their last chance to solve the Algerian problem. There is a risk, he said, that world events will sweep it out of their hands.

Fire Whipped Up Hotel Stairway

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An open, inside stairway that acted as a chimney was blamed today for the swift spread of the Friday morning fire which gutted a cheap hotel midway between the downtown shopping district and skid row, killing 20 and injuring 37.

Albert Hayes, head of the city's fire investigators, said the stairway near the back of the ancient Thomas Hotel at 971 Mission St. could not be closed off from the rest of the hotel because it had no fire doors. When the fire started in the mattress of a pensioner, Raymond T. Gorman, 61, whose room was near the foot of the stairway, it roared up through the stairway to all five floors.

Looks for Improved Relations

WASHINGTON (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy is believed to be considering sending a special emissary to the Soviet Union. The mission: to sound out Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev on what ideas he may have on improving Soviet-American relations.

Presumably, the emissary would be W. Averell Harriman, ambassador to Russia during the Truman administration.

Harriman, who later served as governor of New York, was named a week ago by Kennedy to be his ambassador-at-large.

Of late, Khrushchev has been claiming he can do business with Kennedy. The special mission would try to find out if Khrushchev is engaged on another propaganda campaign or if there are hard facts behind his claim.

The emissary report circulated here today as Kennedy remained in Washington for a tight schedule of conferences on politics, national and international affairs.

Cuban, Laos Problems

He leaves later on what will apparently be his last extensive trip before coming to Washington for his inauguration. Even this visit to old haunts is overshadowed by gloowering problems in Cuba, Laos and other parts of the world.

Arriving from New York Friday night, Kennedy went straight from the airport into an hour and a half conference with his secretary of state designate, Dean Rusk. He told newsmen later their talk covered the two trouble spots and "the whole spectrum" of foreign affairs. He gave no details, but did announce a change in his plans for a full week away from Washington. Instead he will return here for a short stay Tuesday which will include more conferences with Rusk, the retiring secretary of the treasury, Robert B. Anderson, and others.

Sees Jackson

Kennedy's first appointment today was for breakfast with the Democratic national chairman, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington.

New trends in decorating and furniture were unveiled in a special showing of two furnished rooms at the Merchandise Mart in Chicago this week just before the opening of the International Home Furnishings Market.

Falashas, Ethiopian 'Black Jews,' Pose Problem for Their Scholars

By WILTON WYNN
ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP)—Hidden away in the wilds of northern Ethiopia lives a mysterious tribe who call themselves the "House of Israel," but who speak no Hebrew and do not know the meaning of the word Jew.

Living in a remote and almost inaccessible mountain region north of Lake Tana, these people are known in Ethiopia as "Falashas" but often are called "black Jews." Their scriptures are the Old Testament and their religious practices those prescribed in the Pentateuch, the first five books of the Bible.

They call themselves "Sons of Abraham" and "House of Israel" and have a priestly system similar to that of primitive Judaism.

Does this mean the Falashas are a long-lost Hebrew tribe who in the dim past went into seclusion in Ethiopia?

To students of the Jewish community, that has become the great question. Are the Falashas Jews, or are they not? The answer could have important consequences.

Decide Officially

If the Falashas should suddenly decide to emigrate to Israel—as have several other Middle Eastern Jewish communities—the state of Israel would have to decide officially whether they are Jews.

So far, the Falashas have shown no signs of moving to Israel. Probably the great majority of the estimated 25,000 "black Jews" are not even aware there is a state of Israel today. The Israelis have taken seven Falashas to Israel on scholarships, and one well-educated Falasha is connected with the Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

Like Jews everywhere, the Falashas use the Old Testament as their Bible. They observe rigidly the observances and feasts prescribed in the Pentateuch. They strictly observe Saturday as the Sabbath. The word Falasha itself is translated "emigrant" and could imply they are a community in exile.

On the other hand, the Falashas never heard the word "Jew" till Europeans penetrated their region early this century. Not a trace of the Hebrew language can be found in their scriptures, prayers, or colloquial speech. Their Bible is written in Ge'ez, an ancient Ethiopian language.

No Synagogue Guess

Falashas have no synagogues and have never heard of the Mishnah or Talmud. They have priests like the Old Testament Jews, but differ from other Jewish communities in practicing monasticism. They believe in black magic and superstition—secret charms and incantations, sorcery and witchcraft.

The Falashas generally are poor but hard-working. For 200 years, none of them has owned any land. Most of them work as tenant farmers or as craftsmen. Only a few are educated. Todessa Yacov, minister of agriculture in Haile Selassie's Cabinet.

What tantalizes the imagination of those studying the Falashas is: If they are not Jews, how did all those Jewish religious influences manage to take root in one of the world's most isolated spots? If they are Jews, when did they become separated from the mainstream of Judaism?

Reformatory Prisoner Who Attacked Guards Sentenced to Waupun

GREEN BAY (AP)—A 17-year-old Beloit youth accused of assaulting two guards in a burst of violence at the State Reformatory where he was an inmate has been sentenced to the State Prison at Waupun.

He's James M. Cooke, who appeared Thursday before Municipal Judge Donald Gleason on charges of assault in a prison causing bodily harm. Cooke pleaded guilty and was sentenced to two five-year terms in the state prison. The terms will run concurrently.

Cooke had been sent to the reformatory last June for parole violation. He has a long record of confinement in juvenile institutions and mental hospitals.

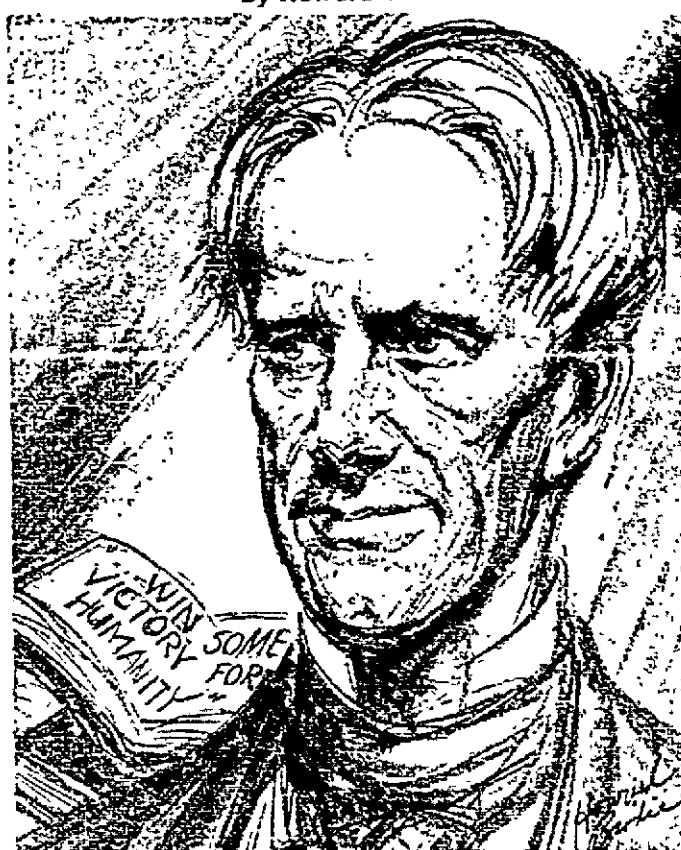

Cooke assaulted two guards last week when he refused to enter his cell. Floyd Anderson, a guard for 37 years at the reformatory, suffered a severe injury about his right eye that required six stitches when he was struck by the cross member of a broken chair. And he also received two small cuts from a razor blade. The name of the other guard was not available.

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

"Be Ashamed to Die until you have won some victory for humanity," said Horace Mann, who developed our great public school system. Over 100 years ago, he fought for better teaching and better-paid teachers. He proposed duty, affection, love of knowledge and truth as cornerstones of school discipline, rather than authority, force and fear. He suggested that apparatus be used as a science teaching aid and introduced school music. He urged that students be taught to think, envisioning much that is taken for granted, or hoped for, in schools today.

"God's laws abide forever and we abide forever under them," he said. "When I think, after the experience of one life — what I could do . . . better than I have ever done for — humanity — temperance — peace — breaking the rod of the oppressor — higher education . . . I would enlist for another 50 year's campaign, and fight it out for the glory of God and the welfare of man."

Mr. Stevenson and the U.N.

We have been critical of many of the foreign policy stands taken or suggested by the new United States Ambassador to the United Nations, Adlai Stevenson. But a glance at the agenda before the international body arouses not only concern about his ability to represent this nation but also deep sympathy for the man who must have tremendous reserves of thought and judgment to keep the U.N. even in balance. Who wouldn't have hesitated before taking that position in 1961?

The General Assembly is scheduled to reconvene March 7 to again take up the nagging world problems it was unable to solve last fall. But the increasing heat from hot spots around the world may force earlier meetings of the Security Council. And this time it isn't likely that the Soviet delegation will take a walk as it did before the vote to send United Nations troops to repel the aggression in Korea.

Laos already has appealed to the Security Council to take action on alleged invasion of the kingdom by troops of Red China or North Viet Nam. African nations are in an increasingly violent split over the Congo situation, the way in which the U.N. has handled it, and the various aspirants for power. Where is the next $10 million coming from to pay the expenses of the U.N. troops for a month? Should the Security Council again tell Castro to go to the Organization of American States with his claims of imminent invasion from the U.S.? Is there any use in still another resolution condemning the Soviet for its intervention in Hungary or another statement pointing an irate finger at Red China for crushing Tibet? How much aid should go to Asian and African countries? What if they are socialistic or palsy-walsy with Russia? How is it to be channeled? Where is it to come from? And what if Khrushchev, pleased with his last performance on Broadway, wants a re-run?

We never have questioned either Mr. Stevenson's patriotism or his sincerity; only his judgment. Today when principle is being forgotten in the signs of disintegration at the U.N., all the wisdom, intelligence, persuasiveness and sound, common sense available are needed. This is a year of decision for the U.N. A few months may show whether belief in freedom and justice can prevail or whether the United States will find itself in the serious position of needing to break diplomatic relations with an organization which could become only a puppet for the selfish whims of dictators of any ilk.

We do not envy Adlai Stevenson. We wish him every good fortune with a large helping of that undefinable mixture of wisdom at the right moment which might determine the fate of the world.

921 Die in Highway Accidents

Eighteen persons lost their lives in highway accidents over the weekend which included New Year's Day. The count took in the period from 6:00 p.m. Friday, Dec. 30, to midnight, January 2. Some of the 18 dead helped to make the record of 921 persons dead in Wisconsin accidents during 1960. The total for 1959 was 921.

It is difficult to explain how Wisconsin's highway activities should take 100 more lives in 1960 than in 1959. In fact it may be that the people who could explain it best are among the 921 who died.

At least eight of the accidents indicate that only the driver knew what happened. The crashes are explained by such terms as "swerved off highway," "veered out of control," "hit culvert," "car went out of control and overturned," "car hit railway train," "car rammed concrete bridge," "truck overturned after veering out of control," "car overturned."

Here we have indications that driver failure was the cause of nearly half of the accidents. This may have been a factor in the other accidents also, but it is not so easy to determine cause in 2-car accidents. It may be that some of these accidents are caused by operation of older cars on newer, faster highways. This undoubtedly is a contributing factor but it is not clear why we should suddenly, in 1960, have 100 more highway deaths than we had the year before. Cars always have been in use for their lifetimes of 10 years or more while highways were being improved and speeds of new cars climbing.

The important thing to note is that we now are entering upon a new year and so far very little has occurred that indicates we will be any better off in the matter of highway deaths in 1961 than we were in 1960, but if the people who could explain a large part of the increase in 1960 are among the dead it is also true that those who will be able to explain the record at the end of 1961 are nearly all alive today. If they stay alive there will be little explaining to be done. But they should know from the record of the past that speeding cars swerving out of control, striking culverts and overturning will contribute greatly to the death toll. Most accidents can be prevented by the driver in each individual case and if drivers will use proper care the record will be improved and they will be alive.

The Refrain Is the Same

An official protest has gone to the International Red Cross from friends and relatives of Cubans imprisoned by the Castro government. But the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, a group of Americans dedicated to speaking up and out for Fidel, hasn't been concerned.

The protests range from complaints of the summary kangaroo courts and immediate executions without right of appeal, through the unsanitary conditions of the prisons and the near starvation of the prisoners, and lately to charges of torture of recalcitrant political prisoners who haven't seen the dawn of Communism in Cuba as their way to salvation.

It all sounds familiar. There never was a Fair Play for Batista organization in the United States but it would have amounted to about the same thing as the group of "liberals" who look so intently to find saving grace for every Red-tinged regime that they are blind on the side. Fair Play for Cuba really means Fair Play for Castro, not the Cubans. And there is little the Red Cross can do except protest and bring the charges to the attention of the world. As in Hungary and Red China, the Red Cross soon may be barred from Havana.

Only Rugged Immigrants Survived Trip To New World

BY MARY CABLE

In the spring of 1782, just a few months after Cornwallis' defeat, a Bremen ship, the Fama, sailed for Baltimore, carrying a mixed cargo of freight and emigrants. One of them was a prosperous Bremen glassmaker taking with him 60 glass blowers and $10,000. "The Bremen ship-owners are trading in souls — a most sordid business," said an official note sent by Brunswick-Luneburg to the Bremen senate. No one particularly objected to trading in the souls of the poor and unskilled, but there was

What was it like when your great-grandfather (perhaps) came to America? It might have been very grim indeed. The story of the "damned plague ships and swimming coffins" that brought hundreds of thousands of our ancestors to this country is told here by a writer who once lived in the principal European port of departure.

alarm everywhere at the departure of good craftsmen and capital.

Bremen decided to mollify its neighbors and passed a law that its ships could carry only non-German immigrants; Germans would be required to give a guaranty of their intention to return. But it was soon seen to be absurd to allow rival American ships to grow rich on emigrant fares while Bremen ships sailed half-empty, and in 1800, the senate decided to permit local ships to be chartered under the redemption system.

Bonded Servants

Under this system, emigrants who could not pay their passage were auctioned off as bond servants upon arrival in America. Sometimes everything went well, the redemptioner being kindly treated by his American master and eventually becoming a prosperous American himself. Germans, in general, had a reputation for hard work and no back talk.

But sometimes parents sold their children in order to remain free themselves, and whole families were separated forever. Most people who emigrated were talked into it by shipping-company agents. Many a redemptioner reached North America to find that instead of serving three to six years, as he had been led to expect, he was supposed to spend the rest of his life as an indentured servant.

The agents had, of course, failed to mention that it was a fortunate ship indeed that crossed the Atlantic without deaths at sea; on redemption ships it was far from rare to lose a third of the passengers. The captain's aids to navigation were a compass and chronometer, which were usually faulty and caused him to sail too far south, and a thermometer with which to locate the Gulf Stream. The voyage could take anywhere from 14 to 24 weeks.

In 1819, the American Congress passed a law limiting the number of passengers in a ship to two to every five tons of the ship's weight; the redemption system had been profitable only when the steerage was packed like a slave ship, and it soon died out.

In the second decade of the 19th century, immigration began in real earnest. "They (the immigrants) were commonly treated with the least possible attention, with the utmost disregard of decency and humanity," wrote Friedrich Kapp, a New Yorker who several decades later served on a board set up for the aid and succor of hapless immigrants.

Yet still they came; life for most people in Germany under despotic, extravagant, and stupid petty princes was unendurable. The people had no rights and were cruelly taxed so that their rulers could live in an anachronistic world of Versailles-like pleasure; for those below, the future held nothing but overwork and unemployment.

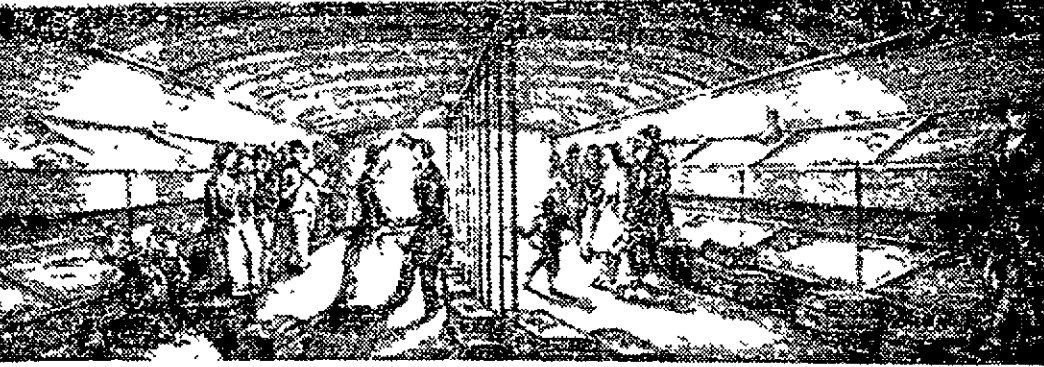

Boom at Bremen

For most Germans going to America, the ports most easily reached were Le Havre, Antwerp and Rotterdam. But in 1830, revolution in France, plus cholera epidemics in Antwerp and Rotterdam, diverted emigrant traffic northward.

Bremen, meantime, had taken two foresighted measures. It was in the process of building a new port on the North Sea, and it had concluded a treaty with the United States permitting citizens of each to do business in the other's ports without restrictions placed on other foreigners; Bremen was thus able to operate more cheaply than its competitors, and to capture a monopoly of the German and central European tobacco market. The city's shipyards were now rapidly turning out new ships after the lighter, faster American design; and by

Here are Sketches of Some of the facilities for immigrants on a Bremen packet ship. Above, first class travelers enjoyed a comfortable crossing in luxurious cabins. Below, steerage passengers were crammed into two rows of double-decked bunks, separated only by a flimsy latticework.

Wisconsin's Growth To Depend on Industry —and the Tax Pattern

BY JOHN WNYGAARD

MADISON — A news picture recently portrayed Mayor Joseph Bayovogon of Kaukauna proudly posting the new population figures of his industrial city on the outskirts of the community for the edification of passersby.

Like other communities in the Fox River valley and eastern Wisconsin, the manufacturing city that has been run by this old friend for several mayoral terms has shown a healthy population growth during the last decade. The publicity emphasis upon the growth of some of the counties of the state, some of them admittedly spectacular, may have subordinated the fact that the population trends of the state as a whole during the decade since 1950 have been less than impressive.

The Wisconsin population today is about 15 per cent above the figure credited to the state ten years ago. Standing alone that is encouraging. The significant fact, however, is that the growth is less than that of the country during the same period.

INDUSTRY GROWTH
Nearly half of the counties of the state lost population during the decade and many others virtually stood still.

Perhaps the most important fact about the counties of substantial growth and those that exceeded the state percentage of gain is that they are for the most part based on the manufacturing economy.

The fact contains an obvious clue to the state's future development, or lack thereof. There are collateral opportunities, as in the promotion of the tourist industry. But there appears to be relatively little chance for the further expansion of agriculture as an important part of the state's economic resources. More and more Wisconsin will become an industrial state, if it continues to grow.

The consensus is plain in political discussion. The idea of industrial development has key-noted a thousand political speeches, in both parties, during the last half dozen years. But the sideline observer finds himself wondering if the politicians have yet found anything very concrete to contribute to industrial expansion—aside from shuffling papers in new promotion bureaus and solicitous well-wishes on the campaign stump.

also is crystal clear that it has some liabilities, some of which are not susceptible to governmental controls. The one possible disadvantage that is within the power of political policy to control—the tax burden—is one that politicians as a class tend to ignore if they can.

Wisconsin business and industry, now and for years past, has been on the defensive politically. There are scores of illustrations in the grist of each week's political news. Illustrative was the recent argument on the tax advisory commission about the proposal to alleviate the burden of the personal property tax which is one of the worst of the discriminatory taxes. Several members resisted with the explanation that the businessman is fully able to pay that levy.

That he is able to pay is not doubted. The question is whether the businessman who may be considering a relocation from Pennsylvania or New York or elsewhere will compare his personal property tax liability here and in competing states when he is making a decision.

Metallic Paper Flowers

Fashioned Quickly, Easily

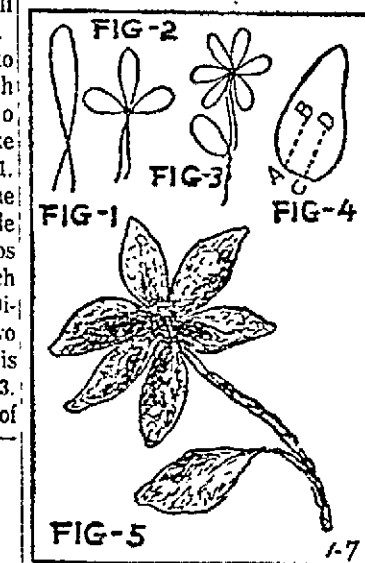

BY CAPPY DICK

With scraps of metallic paper in silver, bronze, gold or other colors, and a few pieces of fine, spool-wire, a boy or girl can make some very pretty flowers for mother to wear on her coat.

You simply make the framework of wire and cover it with the shiny foil. The finished flower will be like the one in Figure 5.

The petals, if pointed as shown, should be about two inches long. If you prefer to have them round, the same amount of wire will make petals about an inch long.

Figures 1, 2 and 3 show how to make the wire frame. Start with a piece of spool wire about two feet long and bend it to make a foot-long loop as in Figure 1. Three or four inches from the ends twist them together. Divide the loop into three equal loops as in Figure 2, twisting each loop once to hold it in place. Divide each of these loops into two loops, twisting them to hold. This makes six petals as in Figure 3. The stem is still composed of

There'll be No 'Pearl Harbor' At Navy's Guantanamo Base

BY EVERETT S. ALLEN
New Bedford Standard-Times Staff Writer
NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (AP)—There will be no "Pearl Harbor" at the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. Fidel Castro cannot take it with the military power at his disposal. And those who are inclined to aid him, Communist China and the Soviet Union, are not willing to take the risk that such an attack would involve.

These facts do not stop the American personnel there from accepting the possibility of serious trouble.

As one combat-experienced officer put it, "How do we know how many launching pads they've got behind the ridge back of the one we can see? How do we even know he's going to be logical enough to know he can't win?"

Actually, if Fidel Castro has launching pads aimed at Guantanamo and the United States does not know it, it would be surprising. The Cubans have 8 to 10 Soviet MIG 15 fighters that they don't know how to fly yet. But they can spot military activity; probably, nothing as superlative as the U-2 is required and the air thereabouts is bustling with faster-than-sound American aircraft.

At Guantanamo's leeward point, on the southwest corner of the base, are the lean young men in orange coveralls and flight jackets who take aloft the amazing American jets. These aircraft are both carrier and land-based; they are capable of nuclear assault and are designed variously to support surface craft and to attack ground targets.

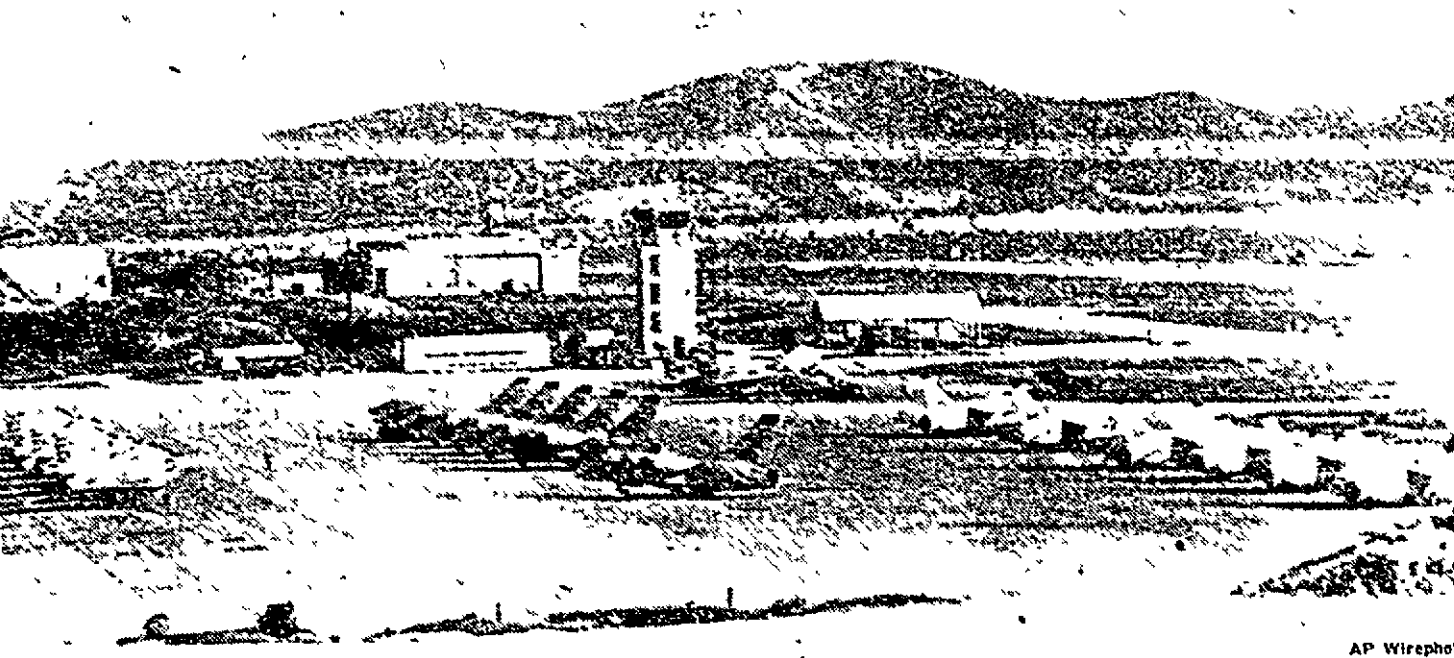

At leeward point at any given moment, there are more planes in the air than there are in the whole Cuban air force.

The Cubans have 8 to 10 Soviet MIG 15 fighters that they don't know how to fly yet. But they can spot military activity; probably, nothing as superlative as the U-2 is required and the air thereabouts is bustling with faster-than-sound American aircraft.

For a navy, Castro has a half dozen frigates and patrol craft, a single ancient cruiser and a dozen wooden launches. Trusting neither the army nor navy, however, he has jailed many officers from each to thwart possible insurrection so he might not even be able to get his fleet to sea.

This is not to suggest the Castro military strength is of the musical comedy variety. His 26th of July revolutionary movement numbered 8,000 men; they captured arms and equipment sufficient for a force of 25,000. His militia, a tough organization of men and women who train evenings with Czech rifles, now totals 200,000.

At least 12 Soviet ships have delivered arms and ammunition to Cuba since last July. Most recent, a freighter Peow unloaded guns, 80 anti-aircraft guns, 15 Soviet model mobile radar units, 93,000 late and 100 3.5 inch rocket launchers, 11,000 sub-machine automatic rifles, 8,000 rockets to match.

with the internal security job in emergency. In daylight and dark they go through regular war games; the object: Learn how to round up and kill if necessary, infiltrators and saboteurs.

What happens if there is trouble is a two-phased program. The Marines, supported by tanks the number of which is secret, dig in and hold until the ground defense force rounds up the infiltrators. Air support, both offensive and defensive, immediately is available.

This doesn't begin to count the help that will come from outside: "Gimmo" has no heavy artillery but the "fleet is just over the horizon" and that's where the big guns will come from.

The important thing is that Guantanamo doesn't have to contact anybody higher up for the "big decision" policy. Now it is shaped so that when "conditions A, B and C" are met, as one officer put it, "the button is pushed."

Guantanamo then launches its defense program and the support from outside—the air and sea strength from Norfolk to Key West—including missiles, A Naval emergency ground de- A Naval emergency ground de- A Naval emergency ground de-

Freshen Up Your Rooms After the Holidays the quick, easy and economical way with long-lasting cut green foliage, advises Riverside Greenhouse, 1236 E. Pacific street. You can phone for your choice. The number of the firm is RE 3-6649.

Rooms which not long ago glit-perfect solution is cut green foli-tered with Christmas trimmings. It is long lasting. It is versa-suddenly seem unbearably barren tile. It's economical! Riverside Greenhouse says you can use a bunch overflowing a fresh flowers and foliage, but large container for a greenery are budget-bound (especially at- touch to delight everyone's eye. er St. Nick's recent visit). The Or, you can use a simple, basic arrangement of foliage, planned from the beginning to look well with or without flowers. Then, since most green foliage lasts for weeks and weeks, you can add different fresh flowers for exciting color interest whenever it strikes your fancy.

Cut green foliage requires little care to stay bright for a long time. With foliage you plan to arrange yourself, first mash about an inch of woody stem ends with a hammer. Or, cut inch - long slits in thick stem ends. This provides more channels for water distribution.

If time permits, roll the foliage in wet newspapers, place stems in a pail or other container filled with hot water, let stand for several hours or, even better, overnight. Then, arrange foliage in water-filled containers and enjoy them for weeks.

Riverside Greenhouse suggests lemon leaves, huckleberry's spiral ucalyptus, leatherleaf and podocarpus for lovely arrangements. The firm will be happy to design greens and flowers for you in containers you already have, if you wish. Riverside is located at 1236 E. Pacific St., and the telephone number is RE 3-6649.

Paint Industry Foresees Sales Improvement in 1961

Like a good many other in-ling portents. The home modern- dustries, the paint industry ex-azation market has been growing perienced a slow-down in its rate steadily and will surely continue of growth through 1960, accord- ing to the Sherwin-Williams Co., 302 E. College Ave. Latest avail- million houses in America are in- able figures (still incomplete) in- great need of modernization right dicate that total sales for the now.

In addition, the very lack of new commercial and industrial construction may prompt indus- try generally to put greater em-phasis on maintenance activities to protect those buildings already standing. Paint, obviously, is the least expensive and most effec- tive way to add to the life of existing structures.

The paints used in new con- struction, maintenance and mod- ernization normally account for about 60 per cent of the paint industry's sales, the Sherwin-Williams man said. The balance is made up of sales of specialized finishing materials for industrial and transportation use. These in-clude paints for automobiles, ships, railroad rolling stock, ap- pliances, office and industrial equipment and a host of other products of industry.

Activity May Decline The demand for these finishes in 1961 will, of course, depend directly on general industrial ac- tivity. There is speculation that "At Sherwin-Williams we fared better than the industry gener- ally during our 1960 fiscal year which ended August 31," Chuck Shannon, local manager said. "Our sales were 4.02 per cent greater than in the previous year. They continued upward in the last quarter of the year but at a some- what reduced rate." Shannon said that whether this slow-down will continue well into 1961 is difficult to gauge, but there are some signs that the low point is now behind us.

Maintenance Activities New construction is, of course, of great importance to the paint industry, but even more impor- tant is the maintenance market. In this area there are encouragthis may decline during the first half of 1961. The decline is not expected to be a sharp one and production should rise above pre- sent levels before the end of the year.

To help spur sales, Sherwin-Williams will continue its exten- sive research activities. Several new products growing out of that research will be introduced dur- ing the year. Early in 1961 the firm will open the new Sherwin-Williams Research Center at Chi- cago.

In addition the company is put- ting considerable emphasis on im- proving distribution. This increas- ed warehouse capacity will en- able the Sherwin-Williams Com- pany better to serve dealers, painting contractors and indus- trial users of its products.

Youth Center Fund Drive to Be Held Sunday

$800 Goal Eyed in Annual Campaign, Students to Canvass

KAUKAUNA — The annual fund raising campaign for the Youth Center will be concluded when nearly 200 students will tour the city to pick up envelopes distributed earlier this week. Goal for this year's drive has been set at $800, according to Fred Barbeau and Francis DeBruin, adult supervisors.

This is the only fund campaign conducted annually in Kaukauna where all funds remain in the city. The Youth Center is in its 16th year of operation and membership this year is over the 400 mark. The Center is open three nights per week during the school year with facilities for shuffleboard, table tennis and dancing.

Drive Leaders
To facilitate the solicitation the city has been divided into 21 districts with chairmen or co-chairmen appointed for each district and these are responsible for teams ranging from seven to 10 students.

Heading groups are Lois Woelz, Judith Guilfoyle, Richard Stegeman, Thomas Otte, Patricia Ludwig, Ruth Van Zealand, Ann Van Offeren, Karen Vanevenhoven, Margaret Carr, Judith LaBorde, Fawn Pechman, Patricia Haen, Kay Hartzheim, Francis Nelson, Karen Schouten, Sandra Kern, Mary Schouten, Nancy Schouten and David Baribeau.

Other leaders are John Robedeaux, Joan Ludvigsen, Sharon Gloudeman, Betty Fischer, Timothy Weigman, Timothy West, Mark McAndrews, Carol Bergeron, Kathleen Verhagen, Nancy Kerkhoff, Donna Weigman, Paula Koch, Sue Gerend, Barbara Otte, Donna Biese, Sue West, Patrick Weigman, Gary McGoey, Peter Voet and Jerome Hennies.

Persons not home during the drive are requested to mail contributions in the envelopes delivered earlier. James Bamberg, Youth Center secretary, will be on hand to tabulate results. Adult board advisory members are Clarence Theiss, Mrs. Fred Ludke, Mrs. Carl Anderson, Mrs. Wayne Carr, Anton Berkson, Eugene Lange, Mrs. Frank Pechman, Norbert Gerend and Dick Jacobs.

Muscular Dystrophy Fund Drive Underway

KAUKAUNA — A house-to-house solicitation for the annual muscular dystrophy fund campaign opened this week and will continue for the next few weeks, according to Mrs. Omer Wolfgram, general chairman.

Letters of solicitation have been mailed to industries and business places. Funds collected will be used to help persons with the disease and to finance research into possible cures for the disease.

Serving as treasurer is L. J. Merlo, cashier at the Bank of Kaukauna.

Two Motorists Fined in Justice Court

LITTLE CHUTE — Two motorists were fined for traffic violations after appearing before Anton Jansen, justice of the peace, Friday.

KAUKAUNA — The Lions Club will sponsor its annual country gentlemen night at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Elks clubrooms with a dinner to open the festivities.

Each member is expected to bring a rural guest and Les Sturmer, farm director for an area television station, will be guest speaker.

Building Costs In City for '60 Hit $1,817,510

Construction Almost Twice Amount Noted in '59 Annual Report

KAUKAUNA — A building boom, the likes of which this city has not seen for many years was noted in 1960 when total estimated building costs amounted to $1,817,510, almost double the $967,245 reported in 1959, according to the annual report released by Lothar Kemp, building inspector.

The $850,265 increase is due mainly to a $682,335 increase in commercial construction valued at $267,815 in 1959 to $950,150 in 1960. Office, K. A. Vanevenhoven, $167,930 from $99,430 in 1959 to $99,760 in 1960.

Over-all, Kemp reported, 525 permits were issued by his office during the year which brought in $1,170,81 in revenues. This is better than double the $500 estimated receipts from permits which was set up in the 1960 budget.

Report Breakdown
Kemp reported 56 new homes built during the year at a cost of $789,700 compared to 52 new homes costing $633,300 in 1959. Permits for alterations and repairs to homes numbered 63 and cost was set at $55,436 compared to 57 in 1959 with a cost of $46,155.

Garage permits numbered 34 and cost was set at $22,025 in 1960, whereas the 1959 figure was 35 on hand to tabulate results. More Liberal Condemnation Powers Sought

Cities to Move Fast To Get Referendum On Spring Ballot

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Municipalities will move quickly to get the second required legislative approval of a constitutional amendment to liberalize their power to condemn private property for public use.

The amendment would eliminate the jury verdict of necessity for each parcel in a condemnation action.

If the legislature, which convenes Wednesday, acts before March 1, question may be put on a referendum ballot for April elections.

Approval in 1959
The 1959 legislature approved the proposal after strong pleas by the larger municipalities of the state.

The amendment has aroused wide interest in communities planning urban renewal projects under federal aid laws, but it also would help public improvements in other cities, its advocates argue.

Under present law towns, counties, and public service corporations are entitled to condemn property without jury decisions. Cities and villages do not have the privilege, and their spokesmen have said the system is inconsistent and discriminatory.

Catholic Magazine Says 'Contact' Dances Are Morally Dangerous

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A Roman Catholic publication carries a moral classification of ballroom dances and their effects.

Vita Pastorale (pastoral life), a periodical put out by Italian Dominicans, says "limited contact" dances—such as the waltz, polka and mazurka—are "morally innocuous."

It says the most morally dangerous dances are those involving bodily "contacts at intervals." Listed among these were the rumba, mambo, samba, cha-cha, boogie-woogie.

Vita Pastorale classifies "extreme contact" dances—like the fox trot, charleston and one step—as bordering on sin.

Family Diary

There were cheers from all of plumber in the morning." I went back to bed, but not to sleep, even though I put a pillow over my head.

In the morning I took down all the purple and green and horizontal blue towels. This combination struck John as peculiar, but he admitted the overall effect was good. "Finished!" I said to him. "All finished. No more electricians pounding on the door when I'm preparing to take a bath."

At noon an elderly man presented himself at the front door. He had the aspect and demeanor of a stage undertaker. "Mr. Horn-dopple for the plumbing," he said to know exactly what I thought of hoarsely. I escorted him to the bathroom, where he turned on all the faucets and stared broadly at them.

"Is it bad?" I asked nervously. "Can't tell," Mr. Horn-dopple said with a little sigh. "I wonder, until I tear some things out. Sounds bad though. I can tell from one house to another. How you that?" I left then, but curiosity many millions of times had bent and straightened his back. As Mr. Horn-dopple progressed his and lifted his heavy tools. And face grew grimmer and his bat-how pathetic was his bid for reciting of the pipes sounded dir-og-nation!

He saw me then and let out an ominous groan. "Looks bad. I can tell you that." I sat down on the edge of the bathtub. "Well, Mr. Horn-dopple, I can tell you this. If there's any-

Sheinwold on Bridge

Card Play Akin to Old River Crossing Problem

As a youngster, I used to love my grandfather's river-crossing problems. There was always a farmer who had a goat, a wolf and a head of cabbage or some such unlikely freight. The boat would hold only the farmer and one item, and the problem was to get everything across the river in one piece.

You always had to solve the problem by going back and forth across the river several times. The practice I had in manipulating myself across an imaginary river did wonders for my bridge game.

You have the same sort of problem in many bridge hands. You have to be in the dummy for such a play, in your own hand for something else, back in the dummy for a third play, and so on. You think of where you want to be, when you want to be there, and what you must do when you get there.

Four Finesses
Let's take a simple example. You have A-Q-J of spades and A-Q-J of hearts, which is very nice. What isn't quite so nice is that you need all six tricks in these two suits. This means that you must take two finessees in spades and two finessees in hearts.

Each time you take a finesse you must lead from the dummy, so you must plan to get to dummy four times. If dummy has A-K-Q-J of diamonds and you have four small diamonds, you can reach dummy the necessary four times with the high diamonds.

It would be the height of foolishness to lead out dummy's high diamonds before taking any spade or heart finessees. You must lead a diamond to dummy and take a finesse. Get back to dummy with a diamond and take another finesse. And so on, until you have taken the four finessees.

Complications
Your entries to dummy are not always quite so simple. Instead of A-K-Q-J opposite four small cards, you might have A-Q-10 opposite K-J-9-2. You can get to dummy four times by leading the nine to dummy's 10, the jack to dummy's queen, and the king to dummy's ace. By that time, if the suit has broken normally, you can lead the deuce to dummy's three.

The timing may provide another complication. If spades are trumps, for example, you may have to take the spade finessees very early so as to make sure of drawing trumps. Then you can lead more diamonds to dummy for the heart finessees. If you make the mistake of playing the hearts first, somebody will ruff a diamond and you will never get to dummy for the spade finessees.

Don't let yourself be annoyed by problems of this sort. If all hands were easy, nobody would bother to play the game.

Spot the Problem
The trouble with some bridge hands is that your grandfather isn't sitting at your side to tell you that there's a problem of getting back and forth. You can't solve a problem if you haven't even noticed that a problem exists.

When this hand was played in a recent rubber bridge game, South didn't know about the problem until it came upon him suddenly.

Decorative Trend Rooms Unveiled at Furniture Show

BY KATHLEEN REARDON
Post-Crescent Society Editor

CHICAGO — Two room settings, exhibiting completely new trends in decorating and accessory items shown only at Chicago's Merchandise Mart, were unveiled at a noon luncheon press conference Thursday on the eve of the International Home Furnishings Market.

The Merchandise Mart, in cooperation with the National Society of Interior Designers, presented the trend rooms illustrating some of the major design trends to be established by new home furnishings shown at the market.

Edward F. White, Los Angeles, president of NSID, introduced the rooms he and officers of the society had decorated and assembled.

One of the trend rooms illustrated American colonial style and the other showed the decorative and soft lines of new contemporary furniture. The international aspect of home decoration also was featured with touches of the Italian trend in styling and accessories.

The colonial setting was assembled amid spicy earth tones. The walls were a pale sage green, the carpeting a ginger spice and the upholstery of a chair a close brown. Cherry, pine and walnut wood tones were used to create an interesting variety. Pieces of furniture exhibited the styles popular in the 18th century among the American colonists.

One especially noteworthy piece was a George Washington desk — a large cherry wood type similar to those used by our first president. The desk chair was Queen Anne, elegant and quiet, with Spanish Renaissance legs.

This blending illustrates the mode popular at this time — casual motifs are blended with the more elegant and sophisticated design elements.

Other pieces of furniture in the colonial room were a wing chair and footstool with heavily antiqued wood members, a 2-candle desk lamp with slate gray shades and a wall ornament which was a reproduction of an old tavern sign.

Wood Combinations
A child's high chair was nestled in the corner and combined cherry wood and cane for a delightful accessory piece. A Harvard Yard mural on one wall added to the flavor of the 18th century room.

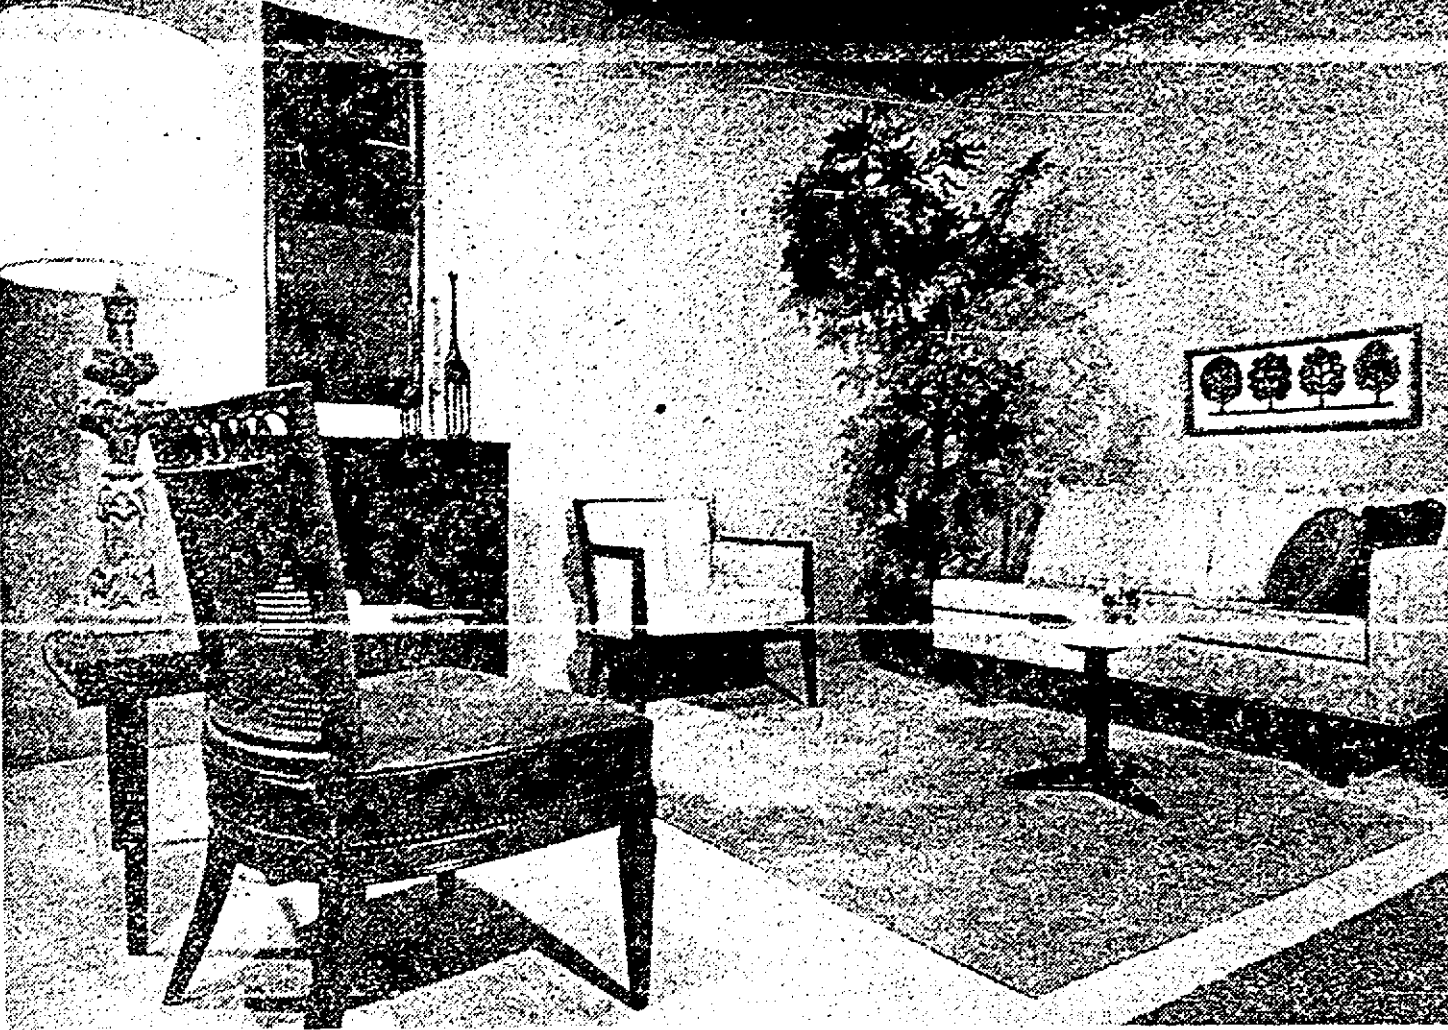

Shades of gold, from yellow to orange, avocado green and touches of black and white were used in the contemporary room. The white vinyl tile floor featured a new travertine pattern.

A yellow scroll type pattern on white fiberglass was shown in the draperies hanging against a deep yellow-gold wall. The modern short sofa was covered in yellow. A mahogany cabinet in half-octagon shape with myrtle burl door panels illustrated the trend to more decorative contemporary furniture.

Another chair, an occasional type, attracted the eye of nearly every writer attending the unveiling. It was a strange concoction featuring a blending of walnut and cane. Its upholstery was a deep yellow.

International Flavors

The avocado green leather armless chairs hinted of the Italian feeling and a wedge shape walnut of Danish modern flavor. A lamp of Gothic design also had a place in the colorfully and tastefully decorated contemporary room.

Giraffe figures of carved ebony were placed atop a cabinet next to a cigarette box and ash tray set of white onyx. A green tree-plant in one corner completed the color and decoration.

Also in the room was a mirror of simple contemporary shape and a "Four Seasons" plaque from a Danish modern collection.

The space allotted to the decorators was small compared to an average room size, but the exhibitors demonstrated artistry with their trend rooms and gave a hint on what is to come for the modern home furnisher.

No Fussy Look

The styles are simple, blended, and take to task the fussy look of not so many years ago. Lines are sleek and elegant; colors are brilliant blues, emerald greens and stick quite closely to the yellow family.

Six weeks of research went into arranging and assembling the trend rooms — research which called upon every faculty of the designers in finding out what the American public wanted.

White, in explaining the trends, likened them to new fashions. "It may take you a while to get used to them, but if it's the style of the time, you will." He emphasized that decorators now decorate for the people who have to live in the rooms, rather than decorating for decorating's sake.

American Colonial Trends are shown in this room setting assembled and decorated by National Society of Interior Decorators for the January Home Furnishings Show at Chicago's Merchandise Mart. The furnishings and designs stem from 18th century English styles popular in early America. The colors are spicy earth tones.

More Clothes

Slow drying and variables in washday schedules account for the fact that many families have to keep more clothes and household linens on hand than are actually necessary. Users of automatic clothes dryers find they need fewer of these items and less space for storage, because most of them can be washed, dried and used all on the same day.

off of diplomatic relations until he took office Jan. 20.

This, Guevara said, is "important (in that it) injects a note of uncertainty on the issue. This means Eisenhower is responsible for all and that there are certain differences."

On Cuba's Terms

"The United States should never feel small in discussing (reconciliation) with us," he said. "We always are willing but on terms of respect for Cuba's sovereignty."

But Guevara also referred to Kennedy's presidential campaign statement that the United States should encourage anti-Castro forces.

"We cannot say Kennedy has changed," he said. "We must be watchful."

Guevara said Cuba's sale of sugar behind the Iron Curtain after the United States closed its markets was the "result simply of a political action."

No Economic Purpose

"Evidently we couldn't ask the Socialist (Communist) world to buy our sugar at those prices and base our petition on economic motives," he said, "because in reality there was no reason within world commercial terms for such purchases."

He said Cuba is willing to sell the United States 3 million tons of sugar at "reasonable" U. S. market price. Cuba then would buy U. S. products in exactly the same amount paid for the sugar.

Before President Eisenhower closed U. S. markets to Cuban sugar, the Cubans were paid a price higher than the prevailing world price as a form of economic aid.

Americans Held

Switzerland, in taking over protection of U. S. interests in Cuba, met a problem which was chronic for the now-departed U. S. diplomatic staff: how to obtain the release of American citizens held by Cuban police.

Four members of a Columbia Broadcasting System crew were picked up by Cuban intelligence agents Friday. Charges were not disclosed. The four are Bernard Eisman of Chicago, Robert Schakne of New York, Bruce Hoertel and Andrew Willoner, both of Washington.

There was no letdown in the Castro regime's feverish military preparations for what it claims is an impending invasion.

LEG CRAMPS?

One of the most common causes of painful muscle cramps is a prolonged deficiency of calcium.

So says a famous doctor and widely-read newspaper columnist, formerly with the Mayo Clinic, and other well-known health authorities

When meals, consistently deficient in calcium, are fortified with DYNACAL Calcium Tablets, tormenting calcium-deficient muscle cramps can be promptly relieved. But don't confuse DYNACAL Tablets with ordinary calcium-phosphorus products. DYNACAL Tablets contain no phosphorus which frequently interferes with the absorption of calcium. And DYNACAL Tablets contain a special ingredient which helps to put calcium into the blood stream quicker—bringing faster relief to cramping, calcium-starved muscles. Pleasant-tasting DYNACAL Tablets with calcium, glutamic acid, hydrochloride, and vitamins D and C contain no drugs. They are safe, harmless, calcium food supplements. If you are suffering from miserable muscle cramps, and suspect you are not getting enough calcium, ask for DYNACAL Tablets, today. Bottles of 90 tablets, $1.50.

Paper Industry Needs Better Merchandising

Printing Paper Association Chief
Hits Preoccupation With Production

The U. S. paper industry is too heavily oriented to production and not enough to merchandising, Robert E. Canfield, New York, president of the Printing Paper Manufacturers Association, said at Wisconsin Rapids Wednesday.

"The whole economy of the country has grown to the point where there is ample capacity to produce so that the problem is not, as it was for generations, one of production, but now has become one of distribution, of merchandising," Canfield said. He said the paper industry has been slow in adapting to this fact.

Canfield delivered a luncheon address at Hotel Mead to about 100 Nekoosa - Edwards Paper Co. salesmen and supervisors. The occasion was the firm's 28th annual sales conference which began Wednesday morning.

"Profitable Promotion"

Canfield declared that the present over-capacity found in the paper industry is not a merchandising problem and, in his opinion, is

CAB Plans Cut In Subsidies

New Formula Aimed
At Boosting Revenue
Of Local Airlines

The Civil Aeronautics Board is planning to curb Federal subsidies paid to 13 local airlines by adopting a "class rate formula" for distributing the money. The board probably will act on the new formula late in January and make it retroactive to Jan. 1.

The local airlines in 1961 will get about the same amount under the new formula as they would get under the present method. A CAB staff study said. But the CAB hopes the new formula, along with some other steps the board is taking to increase local lines' revenues and cut their costs, will reduce the subsidy bill after the 1961 fiscal year and eliminate the subsidies within about 10 years.

$4 to $8 Million

Each of the 13 local airlines gets an annual subsidy ranging between about $4 million and $8 million. Altogether in fiscal 1960, which ended June 30, they received a total of about $53 million, and in the current fiscal year the figure is expected to be about $56.5 million.

The lines are Allegheny, Bonanza, Central, Frontier, Lake Central, Mohawk, North Central, Ozark, Pacific, Piedmont, Southern, Trans Texas and West Coast.

The new formula is designed to make subsidies less attractive to local airline management. Federal handouts will not be as dependable a prop for inefficient lines to lean on. But efficient lines will fare better than they do at present.

Drop Small Cities

The "class rate formula" is the main tool with which the CAB hopes to trim the deficits of local airlines, but it is not the only one. The board also is realigning the lines' routes to increase their revenues and cut their expenses. It is allowing them to serve some larger cities that until recently were served only by bigger trunk airlines.

These new cities will provide more passengers and revenues for the local lines, the CAB expects. And the board is allowing the local lines to quit serving some very small communities that supply fewer than five passengers daily; this move is expected to cut the lines' operating costs.

Will Spend Two Weeks Here

Iranian Schools a Little Different From American, Preacher Reports

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH — The latest addition to the Neenah High School faculty was greeted by fellow science and English teachers at a tea Friday afternoon.

Amir M. Nikbakht, 26, a science teacher at Sina High School in Tehran, Iran, will spend two weeks in Neenah observing American teaching methods and the American way of life.

A Fulbright scholar, Nikbakht is spending a total of six months in the United States. He has now spent four months in this country. He has traveled through most of the country, observing teaching and industrial methods. Nikbakht actually is a graduate geologist and did not go to the Iranian equivalent of our teachers' colleges.

Schools Different

Nikbakht said the schools are set up a little different in Iran than they are here. All education is under a Minister of Education. There are three separate school systems. One is totally government supported and the students do not have to pay anything. In the second, the student must pay part of his expenses and in private schools the student pays most of the expense with the government providing aid.

There are four divisions in the senior high school, Nikbakht went on, natural science, mathematics, literature and technical. If students in the junior school receive good grades in one of the first three divisions, they are sent to that school. If a student only has ordinary or poor grades he is sent to a technical school.

Similar Method

The teaching system used in Iran is very similar to that used here and in England. Until a few years ago the French system was used in Iranian schools.

Nikbakht said foreign language is taught from the seventh grade up. Seventh graders receive instruction four hours a week in English, French or German. Those are the only three languages offered.

Religion also is taught in the schools, but it is not compulsory. The Iranian student has a shorter school day than his American counterpart. Classes start at 8 a.m. in the fall and spring and actually is a graduate geologist and did not go to the Iranian equivalent of our teachers' colleges.

2½ Hour Lunch

Classes then run for three hours, followed by a 2½-hour lunch break and two more hours of classes. The long lunch hour is because of the heat of the fall and spring.

One other difference, that might seem strange to American students, is that the pupils stay in one classroom all day and the teachers rotate for classes.

Nikbakht's main class is geology which, while not found in American High Schools, is very important in oil-rich Iran. He also teaches English but he is primarily a science instructor.

Low Pay

A problem that faces both Iranian and American teachers is low pay. Teachers who graduate from a training school must work a certain period of time in a fully supported government school.

Part of the teacher's salary may be in cash and the rest in script. In addition to observing teaching methods here, Nikbakht will tour several of the Twin City industries.

Car Driver Hurt in Crash

Oshkosh Motorist Struck by Truck At 41, Y Crossing

OSHKOSH — A car-truck crash on Highway 41 at the County Trunk Y intersection in the Town of Oshkosh at 1:40 p.m. Friday hospitalized the driver of the car, Robert Robinson, 40, 2820 Harrison St., Oshkosh.

Robinson received a bad laceration on the right forehead and injuries to his jaw, right shoulder and right leg. He was taken to Mercy Hospital in the Miller ambulance.

Winnebago County police reported Robinson was headed east on County Trunk Y and the 2-ton truck driven by Raymond Wodora, 29, Hatley, was headed north on Highway 41. Robinson said he stopped for the arterial at the southbound lanes for the 4-lane highway, proceeded into the median strip dividing the two sets of lanes and stopped again before crossing the northbound lanes.

He said he did not see anything approach as the sun shining on the glass obscured his vision. His car was hit on the right side by the truck. The car ended 110 feet from the truck and in the ditch, breaking off a stop sign at the intersection. The car was a total wreck while the left front of the truck was damaged.

Orders Mental Test for Boy Who Concealed Knife

OSHKOSH — Municipal Judge Arnold J. Cane Friday afternoon ordered an 18-year-old Oshkosh youth, Raymond Rennert, 921 Monroe St., Oshkosh, to 60 days at the Central State Hospital for observation and adjourned proceedings on a concealed weapons charge until after the hospital's report.

Rennert was arrested by Oshkosh police Tuesday after he showed up at the Oshkosh Youth Center with a knife with a 5-inch blade concealed on his leg.

Dist. Atty. Jack Steinhilber and Police Inspector Elmer Ludwig informed the court that Rennert had been arrested in August for breaking into a vacant home and had been sent to Winnebago State Hospital then for treatment.

MENASHA — Boy Scout Troop 55, St. Patrick Church, will conduct a scrap paper drive beginning at 8 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 14. Paper may be brought to the rear of the parish school.

Report Office Work Openings In Twin Cities

NEENAH — A shortage of women office workers, including stenographers, filing clerks and typists, is being felt in the area, the Neenah - Menasha district office of the Wisconsin State Employment Service reported today.

A study of employer orders on file at WSES shows over 15 openings in these occupations. WSES can immediately refer qualified applicants to these jobs.

"The local need for stenographers, typists and clerical workers cuts right across the board," according to A. P. Engebretson, WSES manager. "Manufacturing, trade, professional service establishments and offices, all need people. WSES is filling orders as applicants become available, but requests for office workers have recently been coming in faster than the people needed to fill them."

Wages for stenographers, typists and clerical workers range from $250 a month and up in the Neenah - Menasha area, depending upon experience and ability the manager said.

Interested applicants, even if available only on a part time basis, should contact the district WSES office at 514 North Commercial St., Neenah.

Supreme Court to Hear Reynolds' Plea To Enter Action

MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Supreme Court has agreed to hear a motion next Tuesday by Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds for permission to take part in an action against the State Real Estate Brokers' Board.

Reynolds said Thursday he wanted to support the State Bar of Wisconsin's opposition to the alleged practice of real estate brokers who are not attorneys of issuing legal documents in connection with property transactions.

The Milwaukee County Bar Association has filed a similar suit in Dane County Circuit Court. If the Supreme Court agrees to hear the case the Circuit Court action probably will be dropped.

Friday's Results:

Reedsville 73, Bear Creek 34.
Winnecoonne 42, Omro 29.
Hortonville 49, Shiocton 27.
Hilbert 31, Freedom 42.

Hortonville snapped Shiocton's unbeaten streak, and Wrightstown's Dan Lamers wheeled in 41 points to highlight Little Nine Conference action Friday night.

The Polar Bears threw up a stout zone defense that bottled up the high scoring Chiefs and gave Hortonville a 49-27 victory. Despite Lamers' near record point total, Wrightstown dropped a 61-54 decision to Denmark. In other games, Reedsville crushed Bear Creek, 73-34; Winnecoonne upset Omro, 42-29 and Hilbert defeated Freedom, 51-42.

League Games Again Occupy Prep Squads

Zephyrs Tackle Springs; Neenah Visit Two Rivers

NEENAH — Single conference games will occupy the attention of the three Twin City prep varsity basketball squads next week as they attempt to keep up the all-winning tempo which they started Friday evening.

St. Mary, now 8-0 for the season after Friday's win over Xavier, travels to Fond du Lac Springs Thursday night where it hopes to pick up its sixth straight Fox Valley Catholic Conference win.

Neenah, alone in second place in the Mid-Eastern Conference, will travel to Two Rivers Friday night for its sixth league start while the same night Menasha bids for its fourth win in a home fracas against Shawano.

The St. Mary freshmen bid for their first triumph Monday night when they trek to Little Chute St. John's court. In Valley Freshman League action on Thursday, Menasha is host to Madison of Appleton and Neenah travels to Kaukauna.

Menasha Keglers Face Bay Stars

MENASHA — The Green Bay All Stars, featuring Norb Treutel, all events winner in the recent Fox Valley Bowling Association Tournament, will meet a quintet of young Menasha keglers at 9 p.m. today at the Brn Bowl.

Others on the Green Bay team include Gene Holewinski, Junior Knope, Howie Nowak and Doug Blom. Bowling for Menasha will be Mike Stepanski, Tom Walsh, Ken Lang, John Podolski and Bill Berndt.

Dave Ruppel had 18 rebounds and Wayne Winters 14 as Hortonville controlled the ball and the boards against a cold-shooting Shiocton quintet. Substitute Rick Anderson scored 12 points to lead the winners.

Misses Record
Lamers, in his fourth year as a regular for Wrightstown, hit on 14 of 26 shots from the field and 13 of 27 free throws. The 5-9 senior, missed the school record set by Don Aerts in 1955, by four points.

Dave Larson had 23 markers for Denmark.
Dick Erdman, a sophomore center playing in his first varsity game, hit three free throws in the last minute to give Winnecoonne the narrow win over Omro. The game was see-saw all the way as the score was tied or the lead changed hands on 28 different occasions. Martin Day led the winners with 18 points.

Hilbert jumped off to a 16-10 first period lead and although Freedom closed the gap to as little as three points, the Irish could not catch up.

Reedsville had little trouble with Bear Creek as the winners rolled up a 70-21 first period lead. Three players topped the 16-point mark for Reedsville.

Hold Up? Kaukauna's Mike Reardon (31) does an impromptu impersonation of a holdup victim as he apparently attempts to get the ball, non-existent in the picture, in Friday's game at Neenah. Reardon is sandwiched between Neenah's Jim Sauby (41) and Dave Neubauer (13). The Rockets's Dick Kuehl, far left, and Dick Skibba of the Ghosts are in the background. Neenah led all the way in coasting to a 67-41 win.

Neenah Gains 4th Straight M-E Win

Stops Kaukauna, 67-41, to Take Undisputed 2nd Place; Posts 9 for 13 in Initial Quarter

NEENAH — Neenah made nine of its 13 field goal attempts in the first quarter and coasted to a 67-41 win over Kaukauna in their Mid-Eastern conference duel here Friday night.

The victory was the hosts' fourth straight in league play against one defeat and, coupled with New London's loss to Menasha, gave them sole tenancy of second place. Kaukauna has lost its five league starts.

After their blazing beginning, the Rockets cooled off in the second period but in the third and fourth frames again were red-hot and the final unofficial chart showed them making 54 per cent of their attempts.

The winners went 2 for 8 in the second quarter but made 16 of 28 tries in the third and fourth frames to close with 27 baskets in 50 attempts.

The Ghosts, who again were at a tremendous height disadvantage, had difficulty working the ball in and most of their 15 baskets were scored from the outside. They tried 55 and wound up by hitting at a 27 per cent clip.

Kaukauna went into the fracas as the conference's best defensive team and the 67 points was the most scored against it in the five league games.

The Rockets scored the first three baskets of the contest and never trailed nor were they tied. They had a string of eight points midway in the initial period on their way to a 20-6 advantage at its conclusion.

30-18 at Halftime
Kaukauna had a 12-10 scoring edge in the second quarter but never was able to get the spread under 11 points and Neenah's lead was 30-18 at halftime.

Neenah's Paul Felton scored on a third period tip-off play and the winners went on to ring up 21 points while stopping the Ghosts at 11 for a 51-29 lead going into the last segment.

The narrowest difference in the final frame was 18 points and the widest was 26 as the hosts hit the game's last two baskets.

Neenah scoring honors were divided between Felton and sophomore Dave Neubauer, each with 18 points. Felton made seven baskets in 10 attempts and was 4 for 4 from the free throw line. Neubauer did all of his scoring from the floor, including several fancy, underhand layups. He dropped in four goals in the first quarter.

Kaukauna Honors
Ken Kavanaugh paced the losers with 14 points on four baskets and six free throws in seven tries. Steve Mayer added 11 on, five baskets from the corner and one gratis throw.

Kaukauna had a good night free throwing, connecting 11 times in 15 attempts, including 6 for 7 in the second quarter. Neenah was successful 13 times in 20 efforts.

Of the 25 total fouls, 11 were concentrated in the second quarter. The free throw stripe was occupied only four times in the first and third segments. Neenah didn't get a bonus chance in the second half.

St. Mary's Bob Rueckl battles for a rebound with an unidentified Xavier player early in the contest Friday night. Other identifiable St. Mary players are Jim Koener (14) and Gus Laemmrich. Preparing to scramble for the ball from Xavier are Warren Whitlinger (23), Chuck Lueck (31) and Dick Wiesner (11). The Zephyrs trimmed Xavier 70-60 for their 18th consecutive win over a two year span. The loss was the first for the Hawks this year after seven wins.

Break Game Open In Second Period; Then Win, 42-38

MENASHA — The St. Mary Zephyrs junior varsity broke a close game wide open in the second quarter and then hung on to win, 42-38, over the Xavier jays.

After a deadlocked first quarter, 8-8, St. Mary ran up 13 points to only three for the Hawks for a 21-11 lead.

At halftime the junior Zephyrs held a 12 points lead, 27-15.

The third quarter appeared it might end without a point being scored. However, with slightly more than two minutes remaining Jim Thielman broke the ice with a basket for Xavier.

Both teams then started hitting as the Hawks rallied to reduce the margin to eight points, 33-25, at the end of the period.

Xavier drew within four points, 36-31, on baskets by Gary Heipias and Bob Rammer but Rich Konkol and Bill Starr kept the game out of the reach of the Hawks.

Konkol tallied 18 points to lead all scorers and Starr added 13 for St. Mary. Rammer topped Xavier's scoring with 14 points. He was followed by Heipias with 12.

TWO RIVERS — After getting off to a slow start, the Kimberly High School basketball team caught fire in the second period and rolled to a 78-58 victory over Two Rivers here Friday night. It was the fifth straight Mid-Eastern Conference win for the first-place Papermakers while the Purple Raiders have a 1-4 mark. Two Rivers opened with a stalling game which lasted through the first three minutes. The Raiders held a 4-2 lead through the opening part of the game but Dave Minten hit a bucket to tie the score and Jeff Vander Velden stole a pass and scored to give the Papermakers a lead which they did not relinquish for the rest of the contest.

Within Reach — The Raiders continued to stay within reach of the Papermakers through the first period and trailed by only four points, 15-11, at the end of the initial quarter. Kimberly scored on five of its first six shots in the second period to take a commanding lead and the Papermakers continued to add to the margin. While the Raiders concentrated their defensive efforts around big Tom Rooyakkers in the first half, Minten and Jeff Vander Velden potted from the outside with consistency.

The Papermakers opened a 30-17 gap midway in the second quarter for their best margin of the first half. Rooyakkers hit 20 points to lead the Papermaker scoring. The tall center connected on 14 of his markers in the last half. Minten had 17 for runnerup honors. Tom Brigham's 21 points for the Raiders was high for the game.

Regents Kill Proposal for Badger Gym

Racine's Konnak Leads Opposition To UW Plan

MADISON (AP)—A proposal for a $2 million gymnasium to be used primarily for University of Wisconsin intercollegiate sports teams has been killed by the Board of Regents.

Regent Harold Konnak of Racine Friday led opposition to the proposal advanced by the university athletic department. He said it was time "to explore the sanctity" of segregated athletic funds that would have financed the gymnasium. He said he would like to see the athletic fund made part of the university's general building program. University vice president A. W. Peterson said that the athletic fund is segregated by law and can not legally be used for any purpose other than intercollegiate athletics.

Gov. Gaylord Nelson previously questioned advisability of constructing the gym, contending it would not help the university meet its need for additional sports space for students not in the intercollegiate program.

Battle for Hartline, Gregory

NFL, AFL Involved in New Contract Fights

DALLAS (AP)—Signings again are plaguing the National and American football leagues. Dallas of the AFL and Detroit of the NFL are arguing over Ronnie Hartline, Oklahoma fullback. Houston of the AFL and Baltimore of the NFL are squabbling over Ken Gregory, Whittier, Calif., end. Last year, as the AFL was making its start, there were a number of court cases over double signings. But those all were based on the NFL signing the boys before their college eligibility was over. The AFL won all the cases. This time it's different. Hartline was signed by Lamar Hunt, owner of the Dallas Texans, on Dec. 7, but he didn't specify exactly what sort of document it was. Hartline, in Honolulu to play in the Hula Bowl, said he signed with Detroit after he signed a "letter of intent" to play with Dallas and that he considered the contract with Detroit as official. Hunt said Detroit would have to file any court action that results over Hartline unless the player reports to the Detroit camp.

Out of Court — K.S. (Bud) Adams, Houston owner, said he expected the case of Gregory to be settled out of court, in contrast to the case of Billy Cannon last year. There was a long legal fight over the former Louisiana State star between Houston and the Los Angeles Rams.

Gregory, the nation's leading collegiate pass-receiver last fall, was signed in late December by John Breen, Houston's director of player personnel. But Friday Adams got a letter from Gregory with a check enclosed. Gregory said he had signed with Baltimore and doesn't think the Oilers have a binding contract because there was no clear agreement on the amount of salary.

Bulldogs' Desperate Rally Falls Short; Ristau Paces Victory

NEW LONDON—Menasha High outlasted a desperate finish by New London to post a 64-62 Mid-Eastern Conference victory here Friday night.

Don Hanold's corner shot with three seconds left rolled around the rim and off as the Bulldogs fought to tie the contest. Dave Emerich had given New London rooters hope with a driving layup with 10 seconds remaining to cut the Bluejays lead to two points.

Both teams now have 3-2 records in the conference.

Early Lead — Menasha took an early lead but New London rallied near the end of the first period to tie the score at 19-all. At one point in the initial frame the Bluejays had 18-11 advantage. However, the Bulldogs caught fire and narrowed the gap with the Emerich boys leading the way. Both Dave and Dick had a pair of field goals in the rally.

Each team scored 14 markers in the second period that saw the score tied on four occasions. At halftime it was 33-33.

In the third quarter, with Dave Ristau hitting consistently, Menasha pulled out to a seven-point lead. Ristau paced all scorers for the night with 29 points on 13 field goals and three free throws. Bill Ritchie helped the Bluejays cause with 16 markers on eight buckets, mostly short jumps. Dave Emerich was the big gun with 22 markers while Dick chipped in with 17. Menasha—44 New London—42

Basilio-Ortega Fight Now Rated Even

NEW YORK (AP)—Fight fans may be getting their last look at Carmen Basilio in ring togs tonight.

The former welterweight and middleweight champion has indicated he will hang up his gloves if he makes a poor showing against tenth-ranking welterweight contender Gaspar Ortega, 25, of Mexico. They clash in a television (ABC-TV, 10 p.m. Eastern Standard Time, ten-rounder) tonight at Madison Square Garden.

"This fight will determine whether I will go on further," said Basilio, 33, a pro of 12 years standing. Idle since he was stopped for the second straight time by NBA middleweight champion Gene Fullmer last June 29, Basilio was rated just even money against the tall Mexican. Earlier in the week, Carmen had been the 7-5 choice.

If anyone can test whether Basilio has anything left, Ortega is the guy to do it. The 5-10 1/2 invader is game and aggressive. He said he plans to go tearing after Basilio from the opening bell.

"He's eight years older and slower," said Gaspar. "I will put the pressure on him."

Van Brocklin Is Candidate for Minnesota Job

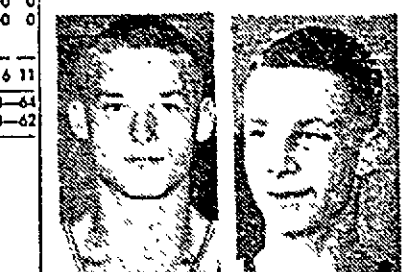

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Norm Van Brocklin, retiring quarterback of the National Football League champion Philadelphia Eagles, is under consideration for the coaching job with the Minnesota Vikings.

Bert Rose, general manager of the Vikings, who start play in the NFL next fall, held a private conference Friday with Van Brocklin shortly after he flew here to play in the Pro Bowl game Jan. 15.

After the session Rose said that Van Brocklin is "one of about five" screened candidates for the job. Another is Sid Gillman, who coached the Los Angeles Chargers to the Western Division title in the American Football League this season.

Extends Win Skein Before Huge Crowd

BY DON CASTONIA

MENASHA — A standing room-only crowd saw one winning streak come to an end and another lengthened Friday night as the St. Mary Zephyrs of Menasha blew past an outmanned Xavier Hawk five, 70-60, in the Menasha High School gym. The win was the eighth straight this season for Coach Ralph Mc-

Becker Clone's quintet and the 18th over a two-year span. Xavier saw its undefeated skein end at seven. The story of the game could almost be told in one word—rebounding. The jumping jacks from St. Mary pulled down 35 rebounds to only 15 (unofficially) for the Hawks. Jim Koerner, 6-2 forward for the Zephyrs, had 14 rebounds. Dick Wiesner was high for Xavier with seven.

First Meeting — This was the first meeting between the two schools. Xavier, which does not have a senior class, will enter Fox River Valley Catholic Conference competition next year.

A late fourth quarter surge by the Hawks, led by sophomore Warren Whittlinger and junior Chuck Lucke, who tallied 42 of Xavier's points between them, was not enough to offset a 23 point bulge, 62-39, the Zephyrs had built up earlier in the period. Whittlinger took individual scoring honors with 23 points, 17 of them in the second half.

Balanced Scoring — Lucke added 19 points on the basis of four baskets and 11 charity tosses. Bill Becker paced the balanced St. Mary attack, also scoring 19 points. He was closely followed by Koerner with 16 and "Gus" Laemmrich with 13.

Both teams appeared tight at the start of the contest. The game was almost two minutes old before Becker dropped in the first field goal to give St. Mary a 3-1 lead. The Zephyrs ran their lead to

MU Plays Host To Unbeaten Louisville '5'

Turner is the team's leading scorer with an average of 21.2 per game. Coach Eddie Hickey of Marquette is expected to start veteran Don Kojis, Len Jefferson, Dave Erickson, Ron Glaser and Dick Nixon. Kojis is the leading scorer with a 22 point average and 17 rebounds per game. Glaser is near the 17 point mark. Marquette defeated Louisville twice last season.

NCAA Slated to Question McGuire

North Carolina Recruiting Probed; Progress Made in Sooner Case

PITTSBURGH (AP) — North Carolina basketball coach Frank McGuire, already in Pittsburgh for the annual NCAA convention, sends his sixth-ranked Tar Heels against Notre Dame tonight, then wings west for a possible showdown here with the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

The powerful NCAA Council will hear McGuire and two other North Carolina representatives answer questions Sunday on whether the university has recruited basketball players beyond permitted limits.

The team that plays the Fighting Irish in North Carolina tonight lists eight players from the New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, a well-stocked hunting ground for Atlantic Coast Conference birds.

A spokesman for the university said at Chapel Hill Friday night that McGuire, University Chancellor William Aycock and Athletic Director Church Erickson will appear before the council.

Crucial Year At Hand in Lamprey Fight

Breeder Streams Have Been Treated With Chemicals

This year is the crucial one in the long struggle to defeat the predatory sea lamprey and will probably be the turning point in the costly effort to restore the commercial fishery of Lake Michigan, Lake Superior and Green Bay.

The state conservation department says that under a cooperative program all the breeder streams entering both Canadian and American waters have been treated with chemicals which control lamprey larvae with good results.

The lamprey is a deadly attacker of some of the prize commercial fish species, and during the last two decades has virtually destroyed the white fish and lake trout fishery which was once the base of the fishing economy in Wisconsin ports.

Many Dollars Spent

During the period the number of licensed commercial fishermen and their harvests have been steadily reduced.

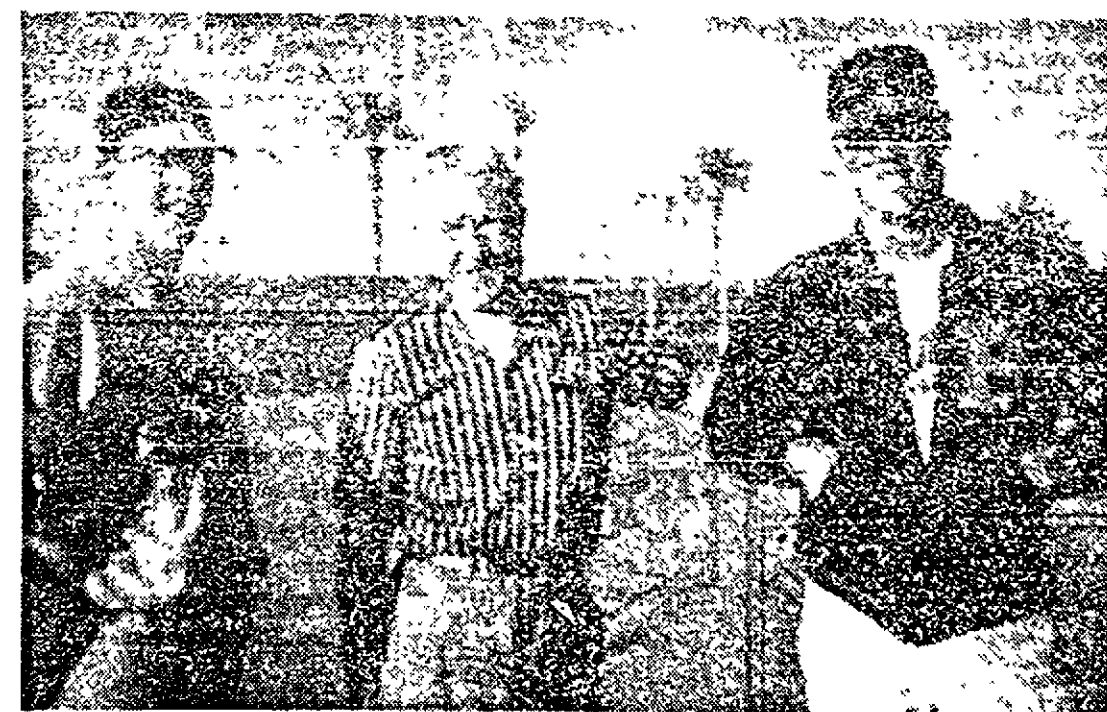

Hundreds of thousands of dollars of state, federal and Canadian government funds have been spent on control programs, first in the trapping of the lampreys during their spawning migrations into the tributary streams, more recently on the new larvicide applications.

On the assumption that the battle is nearly won, the state conservation department is planning for an increase in its propagation of lake trout in hatcheries to permit an extensive restocking effort in Lake Superior and Lake Michigan.

The state has maintained a lake trout hatchery at Bayfield, on Lake Superior, for many years. Before the invasion of both lakes by the predatory lamprey, biologists were satisfied that the artificial propagation brought returns to the fishing industry.

6-1 before Lueck broke the ice for Xavier with a jump shot from the corner. Baskets by Bob Rueckl and Becker extended St. Mary's lead to 13-4 before Lueck made four consecutive free throws to reduce the margin. At the quarter it was 15-8, St. Mary.

Only Threat

Xavier made its most serious threat of overhauling the Zephyrs early in the second quarter, reducing the margin to four points, 16-12, before Koerner, Laemmrich and Becker ran up 12 points while the Hawks were limited to a basket and two free throws by Whittlinger.

St. Mary started slowly in the second half as Whittlinger hit on two long jump shots to shave one point off the Zephyrs' lead, 39-23, about midway through the period.

Then, the Zephyrs caught fire and threatened the blow the Hawks out of the gym, running up 23 points in the final four minutes of the third period and the first two minutes of the final quarter. Xavier never recovered from the onslaught as they trailed 62-39 with only six minutes left to play.

Laemmrich started the spree with a driving layup. Becker tipped in a rebound and Rueckl scored on a jump shot and two free throws. Laemmrich scored on another short jump shot as the Zephyrs put the pressure on Xavier and stole the ball several times to score on fast breaks.

With a seemingly safe lead, McClone substituted freely in the final period. Coach Gene Clark's Hawks were not ready to play dead, however, and rallied to score 11 straight points.

In the drive, freshman Bob Becker scored two points, Lueck five and Whittlinger four.

Becker broke the spell for St. Mary with a long jump shot to bring the Zephyr lead back to 14 points, 64-50. Xavier still was not done as Whittlinger dumped in four more points and Joel Ebben hit on a jump shot to cut the margin to eight points, 64-56. But time ran out for the Hawks.

Coach McClone paid tribute to the Xavier team, saying his Zephyrs played their best game of the season.

St. Mary's domination of the backboards was shown in the shooting statistics. The Zephyrs made 28 of 80 attempts from the floor for 35 per cent, while the Hawks were limited to only 53 shots, making 19 of them for 34 per cent.

Glenn Harke Is One of Stout's Leading All-Around Athletes

MENOMONIE — "I hope that he is the first of many great players we have at Stout in 1960," comments Bob Bostwick, head football coach of Stout State College, in describing Glenn Harke.

Active in football, basketball, and track, Kimberly's Harke is 21 years old and a senior. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Harke and has five older brothers, all of whom have been active in sports.

STOUT Glenn Harke

As a halfback on Stout's 1960 football team, Harke ranked 18th in the nation among small-college ground gainers.

Team Captain

In high school, Harke played end in football for four years and was a letterman his junior and senior years. As a senior, he was captain of his team and gained all-conference honors.

Upon entering college, Harke was moved to halfback, where he won four letters. In his junior year, Harke was voted the most valuable player at Stout. He has been selected to the Wisconsin State College all-conference team for the past three years, leading that conference this year in rushing.

His most memorable experience, Glenn reveals, was in Stout's first game last year, against Winona, when he ran back the opening kickoff 102 yards for a touchdown.

"One thing that characterizes Harke's play is his tremendous competitive attitude," states Coach Bostwick. "Glenn has one of the finest attitudes I've seen, and he's always out to win."

Harke is currently a guard on Stout's basketball team. Captain of the team in his senior year at bell, Purdue; Don Kindt, Wisconsin; John Messmer, Wisconsin; Gene Ronzani, Marquette; John Sisk, Marquette and Howie Weiss, Wisconsin.

3 Rookies Sign 49ers' Contracts

Signed were Tommy Hackler, 217-pound offensive end from Tennessee Tech, the 13th draft choice; Jerry Peery, 245-pound lineman from Central State of Oklahoma, the 20th choice, and J. S. Lockett, a 240-pound end and linebacker also of Central State.

Roosevelt '5' Shades Wilson, 20 to 15

Overcoming a 10-2 first quarter deficit, the Roosevelt Junior High School seventh grade basketball team defeated Wilson, 20-15, Thursday afternoon in the Wilson gym.

Roosevelt grabbed a 13-11 half-time lead as Wilson totaled just five points in the last three quarters. Steve Winter scored nine and Larry Einspahr six for Roosevelt while Mike Ziemann hit eight for Wilson, all in the first stanza. Roosevelt is now 2-0 and Wilson 0-3 in the Fox Valley Appleton Public Schools Seventh Grade League.

Badgers Bid For Initial Road Victory

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Wisconsin's basketball team that hasn't won a game on the road this season, opens Big Ten competition here tonight against Michigan State.

Wisconsin coach John Erickson, however, is optimistic and believes his team can come through with a victory. The Badgers haven't won a conference opener since January, 1955.

The records of the two teams in preliminary games this season are similar. Wisconsin has a 3-6 record and Michigan State 3-5.

"I think our front line is coming along fine," Erickson said at Madison Friday. "With Tom Hughes, Dave Vander Muelen and Pat Richter starting and Tom Gwyn and Ken Siebel in reserve. "What we need is help at not playing. His hobby is cooking, and I think Marty Gharig, his specialty being cherry-pie, is about ready to hit a hot streak as he did last season."

Gharig and Dick Dutrisac will next year for graduate work and ing, still bothered by a charley as an assistant football coach."

Arnold Palmer Takes 12 Strokes on Final Hole

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ted Kroll, who hasn't won a big golfing event in four years, entered round two of the Los Angeles open today 11 strokes ahead of Arnold Palmer.

Kroll also stayed in front of everybody else, but not by much. His 5-under-par 66 left him just a stroke up on three others in this $45,000 event.

Kroll's success was less astonishing than Palmer's failure. Palmer, 31, National Open and Masters champion of 1960, took a shocking 12 strokes on his final hole late Friday. He shot four straight balls out of bounds.

Finishes With 77

The stroke and distance penalties, newly revived by the PGA, plus two to finally reach the green carpet, plus two more to get the pesky white pellet into the hole, amounted to 12.

It left Palmer with a 44-33-77. Kroll, whose last major triumph was in 1936 in the "world championship" at Chicago, and was worth $100,000, held a one stroke lead teeing off today at the Rancho Golf Club's 7,000-yard, par 36-35-71 layout.

Just behind at 67 were Bob Goalby, Bill Collins and Eric Monti. It was Monti who a year ago led for three rounds and blew up with an 80 and a tie for seventh place.

Dutch Harrison, 50-years-old, long hitting Paul Harney, Bob Gajda, ex-PGA champion Lionel Hebert and another power hitter, George Bayer, were tied at 68.

The 69 group included Ken Venturi, a former winner in this event; Tommy Jacobs, Gardner Dickinson, John McMullin, Smiley Quick and Felice Torza.

Goteborg, Sweden — Lennart Risberg, 177, Sweden, outpointed Johnny Halafih, 173, Tanga, 8.

Waiting Patiently for a walleye or sauger to start off with the line is Harold Evers, 413 S. Wilson St., Little Chute. The tipup is the "airplane" type, a long-time favorite with ice anglers but not too common nowadays because of the fancy spring and umbrella rigs. Evers and two companions bagged 12 pike on Lake Winnebago.

Big Lake Turns on Critics; Producing Top Ice Fishing

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Controversial Lake Winnebago has done it again.

The Big Lake local point for criticism the past few years, has made its critics do a turnaround for the third straight "season."

The switch started with the 1959-60 ice fishing when good catches became common after the summer angling had been at the best fair and in most instances poor. Then followed the 1960 summer fishing which was excellent and now the current ice fishing which also is above average.

Hundreds of Cars
So far this winter, the main concentration of anglers has been along the popular east and north shores. Over weekends it is not uncommon to see hundreds of cars moving off and on the lake from access points.

the eight to 10-inch class were re-

Minnows still prove to be the most popular bait for ice fishermen but a number of artificial lures also have been giving good results.

The "Swedish Pimple" is probably the best known of the jiggling lures and anglers report some excellent catches with it.

Our party found that fishermen with the most success were those who stayed right with their tip-ups and jigging poles. Those who sought the comfort of a car or shanty had to be content with only an occasional strike or tipup and often found that the fish made off with the minnow by the time they go to the hole.

I used two tipups, both rigged with a small minnow, and spaced about ten yards apart. This enabled me to devote enough attention to both lines and I could see both easily. I found it necessary to watch the lines carefully as often a pike would merely take hold of the minnow and swim around with it but not trip the tipup.

When the line could be seen moving about, I took hold of it and played the fish until sure that it had the minnow in its mouth.

Saugers, or sand pike, have been caught on Winnebago in great numbers this winter. Most have been around the 15-inch size and some larger. Walleyes seem to be either small (eight to 12 inches) or over the 16-inch mark.

Two other Little Chute anglers,
Bob and Mart Vanden Boogart, fishing not far from us, had some prize walleyes. One topped the four pound mark on a pocket scale and another was 3 3/4 pounds. Two days after their catch of nice walleyes the Vanden Boogarts bagged a 7 1/2 pound, 32-inch northern in the same spot.

One angler said the secret of fast action is to get the smaller size minnows. This follows in line with the reasoning that fish are more sluggish in winter and do not want to cope with a big min-now they have to work on.

The idea that a big minnow brings a big fish does not always hold true. An Appleton angler told of catching an eight-inch pike on a minnow over three inches long.
He was a bit confused over which one to throw away, he joked.

If predictions for a mild winter hold true it is not known how long the good fishing will hold up on Winnebago or how soon the pike will head for the spring trips up the Wolf and Fox rivers. The females are already hard with layers of eggs.

Safety, Comfort Important

It Takes a Bit of Know-How to Acquire Right Ski Equipment

BY TOM TORINUS
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Ski equipment has poured out of American, European and even Eastern factories and into sporting goods stores in such varieties this year that even the most sophisticated buyer is somewhat bewildered.

Every piece of equipment is technically different, performs a little differently and looks a little different.

For the beginning skier technical considerations and precise performance characteristics are not too important in the choice of one of the many types of gear available. Intermediate and expert skis who know more exactly what they want and can better appreciate fine distinctions in performance will have more trouble deciding on these factors.

Because slopes and chalets have become fashion centers, the design and decoration of equipment is a consideration in most skiers' purchases.

The usual pattern applies to equipment prices—generally, the more you pay, the more you get.
The uninitiated skier or the enthusiast desiring a complete new outfit will have to decide how to allocate his usually limited funds.
Skis and boots are equally important and it is a good rule to spend about the same amount on each. Poles and bindings are necessary, but should not cut into the buyers budget too deeply.

Basic Features

All skis should have a basic features and most low priced models on the market have them.
Wood skis should be laminated, is only one all-important criteria — the fit. A skier should buy the boot in his price range that fits him best. Nothing can

Suggestions Include Pheasant,
Trout Stamps, General Increase
In Hunting and Angling Licenses

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The state Conservation Department has offered the new legislature a wide assortment of alternatives for raising the additional revenues it says are urgently needed to keep conservation programs at their accustomed level at a time of booming operations costs.

The department has suggested an array of new and increased sporting license fee legislation — aside from the suggested park sticker fee plan to raise more money for the park program—that in the aggregate could boost revenues for general fish and game and related activities by about $1,500,000 a year.

But its leaders know that the legislature is unlikely to enact the entire list.

Revenue Sources

Conservation Director Lester P.
Voigt recently told Gov. Gaylord Nelson in an explanation of the department's financial situation that "plans are available for necessary programs far in excess of these suggested revenue sources."

But then he added that "they could be activated only to whatever extent the legislature approves the proposals being drafted for legislative consideration."

Here are the new fee legislation revenue suggestions:

- 1. Require a trout stamp for trout fishermen, aside from the regular fishing license, at a fee of one dollar.
- 2. Require a pheasant stamp for pheasant hunters at one dollar, aside from the regular game hunting license.
- 3. Increase the resident small game hunting license charge by one dollar.
- 4. Increase the resident big game (deer) license one dollar.
- 5. Require a resident bow and arrow hunting license fee of five dollars.
- 6. Increase the non-resident bow and arrow hunting license fee $5.00.
- 7. Increase resident fishing license fee one dollar.
- 8. Increase the voluntary sportsmen's license fee three dollars.
- 9. Require resident and non-resident fishing licenses for all outlying waters, such as Lake Superior, Lake Michigan and Green Bay.

Tourist Industry

Significantly, the department did not propose to change the fee requirements for non-resident fishermen, presumably because of probable resistance from the tourist industry which fears that a Wisconsin charge that is out of line with those of competing states would be a deterrent to the summer vacation trade.

Voigt also noted that some other states are contemplating higher fees for their outdoors sportsmen.
Michigan is proposing a dollar increase in its existing two dollar trout stamp law, as well as a dollar boost for resident fishing privileges. Minnesota is also proposing general fee increases to avoid reductions in its program of outdoors management, he said.

Double Boot Popular

Here again quality increases with price. As you pay more for a boot, you buy better fit and better leather and craftsmanship which insure a better fit in the future. The double boot is the most popular device for a comfortable, but firm fit. Models are available in boots ranging upward from $30 and in a few that are lower priced. More expensive boots have special padded linings which mold themselves around the user's foot and give an almost tailor-made fit.

Since more skiers crowd the hills and more inexperienced skisers are able to reach the top of bigger hills these days, safety has become a big word in the ski world. The most significant contribution to the safety of the sport has been the safety binding.

Safety bindings have built into them a release mechanism which allows the boot to slip free from the ski when the skier falls, thereby lessening the chance of strains and breaks. These bindings should be standard equipment.

Release Bindings

Some release bindings consist of a standard, non-release cable and a toe piece which allows the toe of the boot to slip out on either side, providing protection against falls to the side. Others allow the heel to release when a shoe lace or a three-foot Arlberg fall strap backward or directly thong. No matter what the form, its purpose is to insure that a skier stays with its owner after a fall, rather than catapulting down the hill, endangering the limbs of others on the hill and making an awkward chase necessary.

Old Rule Revived

With the debut of the Austrian ski system, an old rule on ski poles was revived — poles should be high enough to reach the skier's armpits. The Austrian style is characterized by a straight stance and vigorous use of the poles and therefore requires long poles. Ski poles should support the skier's full weight without bending badly or breaking.

Only one other piece of equipment is really necessary for safe, enjoyable skiing. That is the little strap that ties the boot loose-models, usually with hard - to-pronounce foreign names, line ski shop shelves.

But an intelligent purchase over the tips occurs. These four-release rigs can be had in a ski

Stock Market Confused by Tension Today

Evaluate Latest
Cuba, Laos Strife
On Business World

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Growing world tensions today complicate an already confused domestic economic situation that has businessmen guessing as to what lies ahead. And guessing right along with them are those who work for them or are laid off currently.

Stock markets show their usual nervous reaction to any threat to peace or to any foreshadowing of increased defense spending. The last time was the Suez crisis. Before that it was Viet Nam. And in 1950 it was the real thing, the Korean War.

Business planners of 1961's course are now trying to fit into it the probable effects of the blow-ups in Cuba and Laos. These could increase demand for some products or snarl pipelines of suppliers of raw materials.

Trade Dwindles
Trade with Cuba has dwindled to such a trickle that breaking off of diplomatic relations can have but minor effect on the totals of imports from or exports to that troubled island.

But the stock market Wednesday seemed to say that the effects on the domestic economy could be important nevertheless.

Stocks of companies that could get bigger defense type orders or at least anticipate no drop from present order levels—look sizable jumps. Suppliers of the raw materials for the making of defense items also chalked up stock price advances.

Any threat to regular world movement of raw materials also excites the markets in such commodities or semifinished products.

First reactions often prove overdone. The market first reacts to the potentials in a foreign crisis. The shouting may die down—and along with it the stock market's rise or fall.

Price Fluctuations
Also in any day's trading one news item is most unlikely to be the sole cause of price fluctuations. Many purely domestic economic considerations doubtless entered into Wednesday's big upturn in prices.

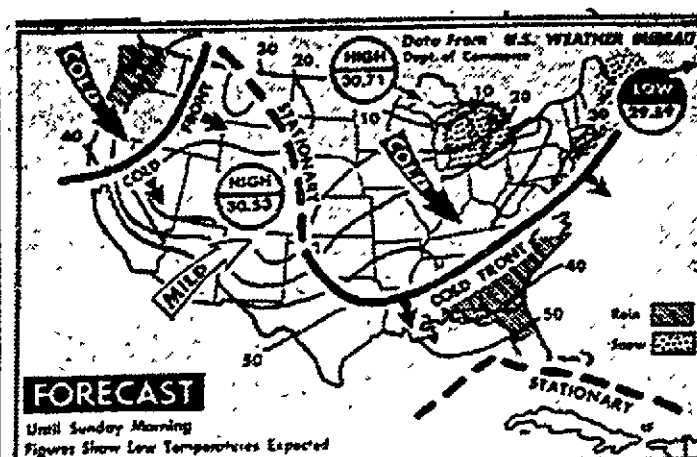

But the coinciding of the stock market's best rise in many a month with the break in relations with Cuba, and with the growing worry that Laos become the scene of a new brush war, can't be overlooked.

Most Wall Street observers deny strenuously that the market thrives on war, sickness on talk of peace. Statistics bear them out. Defense stocks do go up on war threats. But war itself cuts the business of many civilian-serving companies. And these peacetime companies far outnumber those that gain defense orders.

Also most makers of military hardware have active and thriving civilian product markets, which could be affected in wartime.

Better for Market
A glowing peacetime prosperity is far better for the stock market in a whole than any excitement over world tensions.

As for Cuba itself, most American companies doing business there have seen their investments seized or have lost their markets for the time being. Many others

A Few Snow Flurries are expected tonight in the northern Atlantic states and the Great Lakes, with some light rain in the gulf coast region and southern Atlantic states, while light snow and snow showers are likely in the northern Rockies and northern plains. It will be warmer in the central Rockies and colder in the northern Atlantic states, the Ohio Valley, upper Mississippi and northern plains.

are getting their raw materials elsewhere. The big import from the island, sugar, is now bought from other lands.
So the big impact of the Cuban and Laotian troubles isn't on trade but on what it might do to American defense spending in the months ahead. That's what the stock market is assessing, and what manufacturers are trying to guess.

New Books

Adventures in the Air Shown in Period Contrast

Adventures in the air in two strikingly different periods fill the pages of two new books at the Appleton Public Library.

"The Aces," by Frederick Oughton, is the story of World War I flying aces like Manfred von Richthofen, the Red Knight of Germany, and Canadian Billy Bishop.

The author explains the exploits of some of the greatest air daredevils, such as Belgian Willy Coppens who landed on an enemy observation balloon and then took off again, and Billy Barker who engaged 50 to 60 enemies planes in a dogfight at one time.

Man's Heritage
The other extreme is "Ninety Seconds to Space," by Jules Bergman, the story of the X-15, half missile and half aircraft. The well-illustrated book tells of the X-15 and other experimental aircraft that are probing the frontiers of space, and includes exciting accounts of the crafts' trial runs.

"The Heritage of Man," by Goldwin Smith, is a massive volume containing man's achievements in art, government, commerce, science, literature, philosophy and religion from the stone age to the present. Smith is professor of history at Wayne State University.

Other new non-fiction titles now on display are "My Answer," by Billy Graham, answers to hundreds of personal questions by the evangelist; "The Young Rebel in American Literature," a collection of essays, edited by Carl Bode, on writers from Thoreau to Faulkner; and "Which Way to Mecca, Jack," by William Blatty.

Cold Wave Pushing Into All of State

A cold wave warning has been issued for the state tonight. Temperatures are expected to fall to about five degrees below in the north to about 5 above in the south.

This is a drop of about 35 degrees from the high in the Fox Cities Friday. A high temperature of 15 is expected Sunday.

Wisconsin's mild weather has complicated driving in some sections of the state, the highway patrol said this morning. Frost has caused some slippery spots south of a line from Eau Claire to Wausau to Sturgeon Bay.

Duodenal Ulcers Tend to Heal Faster Than Those in Stomach

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: My husband has an ulcer in the duodenum. What is the duodenum and where is it located? You see, doctors use such big words and people who never studied medicine don't always understand. — Mrs. M."

The duodenum is the first eight or 10 inches of the intestine—that is to say, our food, when we eat it, is collected first of all in the stomach.

There it is churned into a more or less liquid form, after which it proceeds into what we call the stomach. The duodenum both are subject to ulcers, but about 10 times as many occur in the duodenum as in the stomach. This, as a matter of fact, is a good thing; if I had to have an ulcer, I'd prefer it to be in the duodenum. The duodenal ulcers tend to heal more rapidly, and for whatever reason, have much less tendency to develop into more serious problems.

If you want a term to cover ulcers of either stomach or duodenum, you can refer to them as peptic ulcers. But when somebody says he has ulcers but doesn't specify where, the chances are that he's talking about duodenal ulcers.

In either case, first give the ulcers a chance to heal naturally. This means avoiding things which tend to irritate them. Avoid highly seasoned foods, alcohol, and so on. Generally, it is very important that the patient give up smoking. It is also important for him to try to control his nerves, because a good many sufferers are high-strung people, and if they can learn to calm down, it lets the muscular activity of the stomach relax, too.

In addition, some medications help, and so does taking a good deal of milk or cream which tends to ease the irritation.

Anyway, that's briefly how we tackle duodenal ulcers.

Hospital Best
"Dear Dr. Molner: I have a cataract on my eye. Could I have it taken off in a doctor's office, or would I have to go to a hospital and stay there a week and not work for two or three months? — J.W."

Removal of a cataract ought to be done in the hospital, so the patient can have rest and nursing care after the operation. It is not an office procedure. On the other hand, how long you will be off from work afterward depends on many factors: How quickly the eye heals, whether there were any complications of any sort, how the other eye is, and so on. Your doctor usually can give you a pretty good estimate, but the time varies considerably from one patient to another.

Leave It Alone
NOTE TO MRS. J. M.: Since your doctor says not to bother about your navel hernia, here's your answer. Leave it alone unless it requires surgery. If surgery is necessary, it would be a matter of removing the hernia by closing the small break in the abdominal wall, which is what a hernia is. It would not interfere with subsequent pregnancy.
